MADRID CLAIMS REBEL TROOPS BEATEN BACK BITTER BATTLE RAGING ON OUTSKIRTS OF CAPITAL

Madrid, Nov. 6.
The War Ministry claims that Government troops have made an appreciable advance in the fighting to the south of Madrid this afternoon. A statement from the Ministry says: "The enemy are falling back with enormous losses."—Reuter.
NAVALCARNERO RETAKEN?
Madrid, Nov. 6.
The Minister for War announces that militia units have recaptured Navalcarnero.—Reuter.

London, Nov. 6.
What is expected to be the last battle for Madrid is now in full swing. According to Lisbon reports, masses of African infantry, supported by hundreds of armoured cars and tanks, are engaged in a bloody conflict with Government troops who are holding Madrid's front line defences.
The insurgent batteries at Alcoron and Getafe are shelling the capital. They have been thundering since dawn.
The Madrid official broadcasting station has ordered the evacuation of districts around the capital and apparently the militia is falling back to defend positions in the city itself, including barricaded streets and buildings.
The insurgent cavalry conducted a lightning raid on the Puente de Vallecas district of Madrid and reported that it encountered no opposition. Many white flags were visible on buildings in the outskirts of the city.—Reuter.

Campaign Is Lost
Seville, Nov. 6.
It is reported here that the Russian General Vallink, who is directing the defence of Madrid, has informed the Government that it is impossible to continue the war in view of the undisciplined nature of the militia. He expressed the belief that the campaign was practically lost.
It is believed General Vallink attributes his defeat at Alcoron, Getafe and Leganes to the fact that the militia failed to support the Russian tank offensive.
Several militia officers, it is alleged, have been executed because they fled from the field of battle, leading the general desertion.
The Government is reported to have ordered Madrid's suburban population to take refuge in the centre of the capital in view of the Rightist advance.—United Press.

Steady Pressure
Valladolid, Nov. 6.
A Rightist radio broadcast at 5.30 p.m. to-day said the insurgent troops had advanced during the afternoon and were at present within six kilometres of Puente del Sol, the central plaza of Madrid.—United Press.

Heavy Fighting
Madrid, Nov. 6.
Bitter fighting is still proceeding around Carabanchel, five miles south-west of Madrid, which the insurgents are at present shelling. The air reverberates with the boom of guns and the bursts of shrapnel and high explosive.
The insurgents launched an attack from the direction of Pozuelo towards one of the principal railway lines entering Madrid. Simultaneously, another column advanced from Carabanchel, while a third worked its way from the south with a similar objective.
The insurgents appear to have concentrated the bulk of their forces to the west of the capital, even at the risk of endangering their positions in other parts of the country.
It is believed the conquest of the capital, if achieved, will not mean the conquest of Spain, as the insurgents' main forces are likely to be compelled to leave Madrid for other theatres of war. It is understood preparations are afoot to continue the fighting after the capital falls.—Reuter Special.

ROYAL MARRIAGE
The Hague, Nov. 6.
The marriage date for Princess Juliana and Prince Bernard is the 58th anniversary of the marriage of the Princess' grandparents. The civil ceremony in the Town Hall at the Hague will be followed by a religious ceremony in the Protestant Cathedral of St. James.—Reuter.

STUDYING EUROPEAN AIR WORK
CHINESE EXPERT IN GERMANY
Berlin, Nov. 6.
Mr. Chien Chang-cho, Director of the Air Defence Engineering School at Nanking, arrived here to-day to study civil and military aviation. His programme includes a visit to the Junkers aeroplane works at Dessau and to Stuttgart and other German towns.
A special aeroplane will be placed at his disposal and he will be accompanied by three German engineers who will give him all the information he desires.
Mr. Chien will also visit Paris, Warsaw and Moscow before returning to China.—Reuter.

SUBMARINE SUNK BY REBELS

Picture shows a dramatic scene off Ferrol, on the north coast of Spain, when the Government submarine B.G. was sinking after an engagement with one of the insurgents' warships, from the deck of which this photo was taken. A boat from the warship is seen standing by to rescue the sinking craft.

GOVERNMENT MEASURES TO BENEFIT WHOLE NATION
London, Nov. 6.
Intervening to-day in the House of Commons debate on the Labour amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, the Minister of Health spoke of the Government's plans for dealing with problems of physical education and nutrition. Sir Kingsley Wood said people were living in England to-day longer than their forefathers and it was their duty to see that those extra years were worth living. To be worth living, the men and women who loved them must be healthy, both in spirit and in body. The House would have a full opportunity for consideration and discussion of the proposals for physical education in connection with which the Government were taking the advice of experts in the medical profession and among social workers who had already so large an experience on the subject. He fore-shadowed that Parliamentary approval would be necessary for some of the proposals.
The Government considered that physical education and development should be given a definite and special place in the structure of the national health system. An Advisory Committee appointed on nutrition was going ahead steadily with its work.
The Ministry of Health, at the desire of the Committee, was co-operating with local authorities in a number of dietary surveys. In connection with the milk scheme in operation in schools containing over 90 per cent. of elementary school children and additional provision in connection with maternal welfare centres, the Government had under examination the means of increasing the effectiveness of the scheme and of extending still further its scope.—British Wireless.

BIG RAISE IN WAGES FOR U.S.
THOUSANDS BENEFIT FROM BONUSES
DISTRIBUTION OF PROFITS
New York, Nov. 6.
Wage increases averaging around 10 per cent. and ranging as high as 25 per cent. have been authorised or are under consideration for 526,000 employees in the nation's steel industry.
In Pittsburgh the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation has offered 100,000 employees a year's contract with wage increases averaging 10 per cent. which involves a sum of $29,000,000 annually. The workers in two mills have accepted the offer, but nine mills have rejected it, demanding a 15 per cent. increase.
In San Francisco, the Columbia Steel Company, one of the largest on the coast, to-day announced a ten per cent. average wage increase to 4,500 workers.
This followed the conclusion of negotiations between the Committee and the employees, providing that further increases or decreases will be made whenever the Federal Bureau of Labour Statistics index of the cost of living rises or falls.
Both the above companies are subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation.
The Bethlehem Steel Corporation have announced a wage increase which will become effective on November 6. The announcement says that the basic pay for common labour will be increased 5 1/2 cents per hour, while other wages are being "equitably adjusted." It is estimated that a 10 per cent. raise will put nearly $80,000,000 extra into the steel workers' envelopes annually.
Meanwhile, other corporations have voted for millions of dollars to be distributed among workers and stockholders in the form of wage increases, bonuses, increased dividends and extra dividends.
These include the Standard Oil of New Jersey, which has declared a 75 cent. extra dividend and also allocated $4,500,000 to the workers' Thrift Fund.
The Chrysler Corporation has allocated $4,000,000 as a bonus to the workers, bringing the year's total to $6,300,000 over the regular wages.
Officials of the various subsidiaries to the United States Steel Corporation are at present all in conference and are expected soon to announce wage increases, while the independent steel makers are studying the wage question and are expected to follow the United States' and Bethlehem Steel Corporations' lead.
Meanwhile the American Iron and Steel Institute has announced that the industry's payrolls and employment figures reached all time high levels during the month of September. They say that for the first nine months of this year the payrolls totalled $340,770,000, which compares with $557,704,000 for the whole of 1935.—United Press.

INTERVENTION DISCUSSED
New York, Nov. 6.
Hunger, fatigue and lack of money, owing to the exhaustion of strike funds, are beginning to have effect on the shipping strike and there are indications of a break in Boston where a number of seamen are returning to work.
In other parts of the country, however, the deadlock continues and Government intervention is possible. A decision in this matter will be taken following conferences in Washington between President Roosevelt, the Maritime Commission and Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary for Labour.—Reuter.

ROOSEVELT'S

New York, Nov. 6.
The latest totals in the United States presidential election gives President F. D. Roosevelt the enormous popular vote of 25,930,277.
Governor Alfred Landon, his Republican opponent, has the respectable total of 15,539,009, but at that stage by 10,000,000 behind the greatest vote total ever amassed by an American presidential candidate.
Mr. William Lemke's total is 744,573, Senator Thomas' 59,865 and Mr. Earl Browder, the Communist, has 37,243.—Reuter.

AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION
London, Nov. 6.
It is reported that an agreement is on the point of conclusion between the Blackburn Aircraft Company and Messrs. William Denny for the manufacture of aircraft at Dumbarton, Clydebank. Ultimately the factory will specialise in the construction of flying boats, but in the first instance will be employed in the production of machines at present required by the Air Ministry.—British Wireless.

TALE OF WEIRD MONGOOSE TOLD IN LONDON COURT
London, Nov. 6.
The Loch Ness Monster has been outdone as a newspaper story by the so-called "talking mongoose" which has been given much prominence in the London press in connection with a slander suit in the King's Bench Division.
The action was brought by Mr. R. S. Lambert, editor of the B.B.C. newspaper, The Listener, against Sir Cecil Levitt, former chairman of the London County Council.
The main allegation is that Sir Cecil told a third party that Mr. Lambert was mentally incompetent and it was alleged that Mr. Lambert had given credence to the reported existence of a super-intelligent mongoose, a recital of whose supposed behaviour greatly amused the court.
Mr. Lambert denied his alleged credulity and was awarded £7,500 damages and costs.—Reuter Special.

ANTICIPATED
Washington, Nov. 6.
Following a conference at the White House, Mr. Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Brazil, said that President F. D. Roosevelt had definitely decided to attend the opening of the Buenos Aires peace conference.
He revealed that the President planned to make a one day halt at Rio de Janeiro during his cruise southward, on November 20.
Mr. Gibson's statement followed a press conference at which President Roosevelt said he was eager to go but was unable to decide definitely until next week.
Simultaneously, Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, informed a group of women peace advocates that he expected the Buenos Aires conference to establish model peace machinery for the two Americas which the rest of the world would do well to copy.
It is understood President Roosevelt will embark aboard the cruiser Indianapolis at Charleston, on November 17, for a record run south to Buenos Aires. The ship will probably halt for fuel at Trinidad.
Ambassador Gibson is sailing from New York on Saturday to arrange in advance for President Roosevelt's arrival in Brazil.—United Press.

RUG SECTION

THIS rug is made in the two-ply carpet wool, skinned in three strands. They're easy to make, they're fun to make—and they save you money

It is worked on hessian, which you can get plain or printed with designs ready for working.

Wind the wool into a ball and thread it through a needle, which you can buy with the wool. This needle has two spare points.

Thread the end of wool through the eye nearest the thumbscrew on the needle, then into the slot at the back of the needle and out of the eye nearest the point.

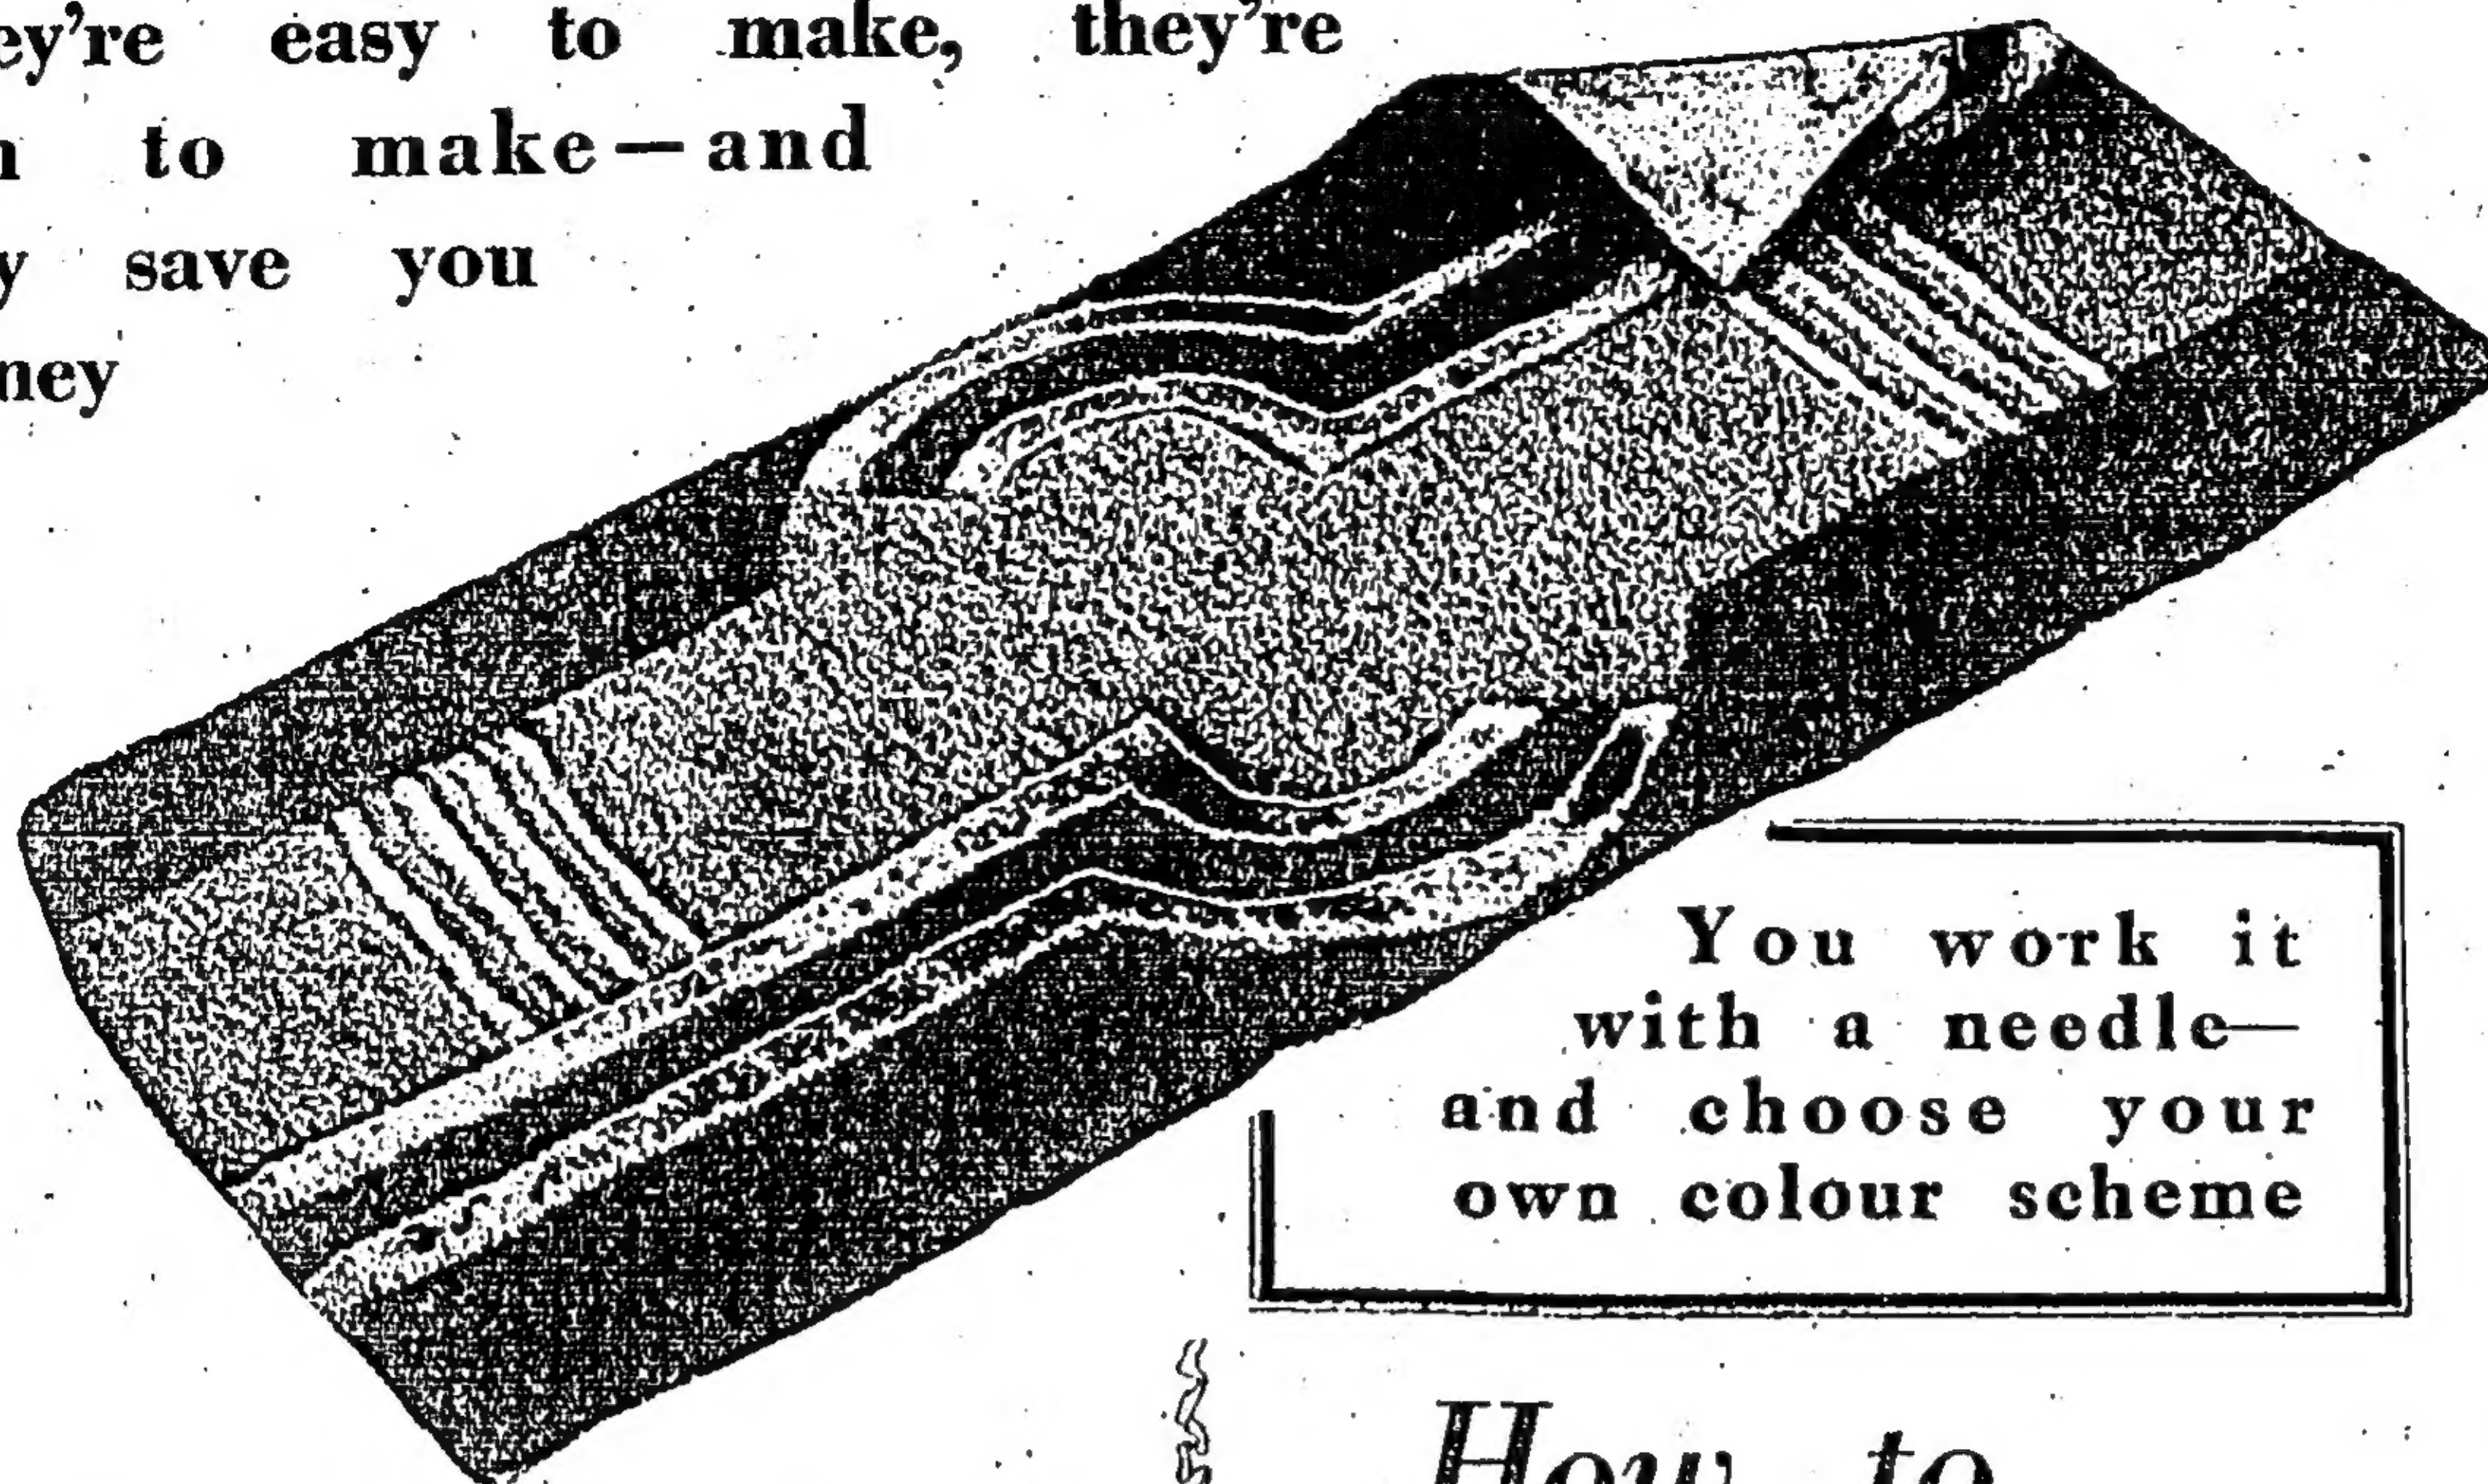

Then adjust the stitch to the height of the pile required by releasing the thumbscrew and sliding the gauge up or down as required.

This screw is then tightened to hold its position.

TO work the needle, you hold it above the thumbscrew to allow the wool to flow freely. Work on the "wrong" side of the rug—design first—then fill in the background, border last of all.

Push the needle-point through the hessian as far as it will go, then draw it back until a loop is formed behind. Put a finger firmly on the loop just made and hold it down until the next one is made. The loops are perfectly even because the gauge stops the needle going too far.

DESIGN for a Modern Home

You work it with a needle—and choose your own colour scheme

How to Crochet this FEZ CAP

2 oz. 4-ply wool.
2 bundles of piping cord.
1 crochet hook No. 15.
1 oz. 4-ply wool of contrasting colour for tassel.

Start in the Centre

Begin in the centre of crown. Crochet 20 sts. over the end of the cord and form a circle, pulling it tight so that there is no hole.

Crochet round and round over the cord until the circle measures 6 ins. across, bend the last row over to start shaping the crown.

Continue working round, keeping the cord tight, so that the circle gets no larger until the crown is 1 in. deep. Then begin to make your rows gradually larger until the crown measures 21 ins. round (or to the size you require) and is 5 ins. deep. Fasten off firmly.

Contrasting Tassel

Make a tassel of the contrasting coloured wool and sew to centre of crown.

Work from left to right and keep the point close to the hessian as you withdraw it, so that no loops are formed on the wrong side of the rug.

Cut through the loops after each row of work is completed.

TO make a nice firm border, attach an adhesive lining. You do this by ironing it round with a hot iron. The end of the hem should be turned into the lining and stitched down, for a really neat finish.

The two finer points of the rug needle are for making chair backs and cushion covers in two or three-ply wool. The finest point makes raised work like chenille when used with embroidery silks or cottons. You use these in the same way as for rug-making, but you need not hold the loops behind if you use a frame.

This Girl Has World's Most Thrilling Job Now She Has Married A Bank Clerk

QUEEN OF THE JUNGLE

TRADER, PIONEER, DOCTOR, AND NURSE

New York, Oct. 25.

VIOLET McTURK, the loneliest woman in the world, is tired of being lonely.

Violet, slim, blonde, aged twenty-nine, has the most thrilling job in the world. She is the uncrowned, but unquestioned, Queen of Potaro, one of the wildest jungle tracts under the sun in the interior of British Guiana.

She dominates men of her own race and blacks. She's a shrewd trader, pioneer, doctor, nurse and medicine woman. She has made it possible for tourists to visit the world's highest catarract, Kaieteur Falls.

Few men could have held down the job she has been doing.

It all began ten years ago, when a roving, adventurous Irishman named McTurk made his way to Georgetown. He was sunbaked, racked with fever, and starving.

His clothes were tattered, but in his pockets and in the loads his half-savage bearers carried was a small fortune in gold.

McTurk became restless in Georgetown and went to Barbados in the British West Indies. There he found a pretty girl of nineteen. They fell in love, and Violet became Mrs. McTurk.

THEIR GODDESS

Two years later McTurk died of fever. His 21-year-old bride was left alone in the wilderness, alone except for a small corps of native porters.

She gave men bitter powders and burning liquids, and these made them well.

She became their goddess. She carried on her trail her most. She always retained her femininity in the jungle, used make-up and lipstick.

Then she decided to branch out, and found time to work a project to open up the interior for tourists.

Eventually the tourist trade to the Falls became important enough for the British Guiana Government to take a hand. They subsidised the service, but not without appointing the "Queen of the Potaro" official agent to his Majesty's Government.

THEY MET

Early this year she decided she had earned a holiday. She came to New York. She spent four hysterical months among the skyscrapers.

She went back to British Guiana in a cruise ship, and in that ship she met a young Englishman, Mr. J. R. Gill, on his way to British Guiana to fill a post.

They fell in love, and they have just been married in Georgetown. Mrs. Gill avows she is going to keep up her job as Queen of the Jungle.

But her husband wants to do his job. And what do you think that job is?

The girl with the most thrilling job in the world has married a bank clerk.

Girls Make Bombs Again

WOMEN and girls over 18 are to be admitted as workers in a British munition factory for the first time since the war.

A recent London Gazette stated:—

"Women over the age of 18 are authorised to be employed on two-day shifts in filling 3-inch mortar bombs at the Powder Factory of Messrs. Nobel's Explosives Co. Ltd., subject to conditions as to weekly alternation of shifts, accommodation for clothing and facilities for washing and for taking meals."

Filling bombs is one of the least dangerous tasks in an explosives factory.

In the 18 years that have elapsed since the war safety precautions have been perfected.

The factory concerned is at Denaby, Rotherham, Yorkshire.

World Flyers May Join New Race

Johannesburg, Oct. 21.

A PROJECT for a world air race to Johannesburg was hinted at to-day, when Mr. C. W. Scott was presented with his £4,000 prize at a luncheon here.

It was announced that the £6,000 balance of the prize money which had been promised by Mr. Schlesinger, organiser of the race, to the dependents of Mr. Max Finlay and Mr. H. A. Morgan, killed when their machine crashed would be divided as follows:

£2,000 each would be given to the widows and the remaining £2,000 would be devoted to the children's education.

"TERRIBLY BEHIND"

Acknowledging the presentation Mr. Scott said he regretted the race had not come up to expectations. And it been more international in character, with American, German, and Dutch machines in the race, undoubtedly British aircraft would have done better than they did in this race.

"We are terribly behind in commercial aviation to-day," he said. "There are reasons which, in my opinion, make it impossible for our commercial aviation to go ahead in the spirit in which it should go."

Replying, Mr. Schlesinger hinted that when next in London he would consider the possibility of organising an international race to the Union.

Scott and Guthrie, his companion, are leaving on Thursday on their return flight to England. Mr. Guthrie, who is a Cambridge undergraduate, has to be back by Friday week for the start of the new university term.

Wanted: Heiress To £10,000

GLASGOW lawyers are searching for the heiress to £10,000.

Recluse Harry Reilly died in a lonely cottage in Ayrshire last July. None of his neighbours knew he had a wife or daughter until his will was opened. It directed that his fortune should be left to his daughter.

Attempts to find wife or daughter have failed.

Inquiries have established that the daughter, who is 45, was last known to be living at Wether Rd., Putney, S.W.—four years ago. All trace of her has since been lost.

The next-of-kin are a niece and nephew of Mr. Reilly. They cannot claim the fortune until the lawyers are satisfied that the daughter is dead.

ODD CANOE SHIP TO TRY PACIFIC

Honolulu, Oct. 25.

Hawaiian beach experts and sailors are dubiously wagging their heads over the strange boat that has been built by two French scientists for a cruise of two or three years in Southern Pacific waters.

The craft as it appears to date seems to combine various features of a catamaran, a Chinese junk, an ancient Polynesian double canoe and a Mississippi house boat.

The two scientists are Capt. Eric de Bisschop and Joseph Taitbout, who are being financed by the French Geographic Society.

After three years of exploration in the Southern Pacific their original boat was wrecked here and all of their records lost. They at once set to work on the construction of a new boat which they believe will overcome all dangers of South Sea navigation.

The first lap will be to Clipperton Island, several miles off the Central American coast. From there they plan to sail westward to the Tuamotus, then Easter Island, Peru, the Panama Canal, New York, and finally back to France.

The boat employs the old Polynesian principle of double canoes joined together. Experts believe it will sail as long as the two canoes remain joined together, but if something happens, such as a violent wave or storm, to break the connecting beams, neither canoe is capable of keeping afloat in heavy seas.

"You Americans say I am stupid," de Bisschop replies to a critic. "You say I will drown when I go out on the high seas. Well, that is all right, because stupid people should be drowned."

BEAUTY TESTS—BY DOCTORS

DR. CLIFFORD BARBORKA, of North-Western University Medical School, Illinois, says milk is not fattening, and the health and beauty seeker need not fear to eat such combinations as ice-cream and lobster or milk and cherries—they do not cause acidity.

SIR CUTHBERT WALLACE, President of the Royal College of Surgeons, told student chiropractors in London recently that since short skirts came into fashion there had been a revolution in women's footwear; women insisted on compressing their feet.

DR. LETA HOLINGSWORTH, director of the Speyer School, New York, says tests reveal that the bright children are not only prettier and more attractive than the others, but they are five per cent. taller and 18 per cent. heavier.

CORRESPONDENCE

Armistice Day In Hongkong

The Editor Hongkong Telegraph,
Sir—In the years immediately following the war, the observance of Armistice Day was much the same in this Colony as at Home—mourners were fired from various points, and the Silence kept throughout the Colony.

With the passage of time, the ceremonial has been whittled down in Hongkong, till the observance of the Silence is not even enforced within the very shadow of the Cenotaph.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

E. ~~1122~~ R.

It is requested that all Civil Associations and individuals who wish to place wreaths on the Cenotaph at the conclusion of the Service on Armistice Day will kindly inform the undersigned, in writing, before 10th November, so that accommodation may be arranged within the Police barrier.

T. H. KING,
Inspector General of Police,
5th November, 1936.

H.M. DOCKYARD, HONG KONG.

Examination for Local Clerks.

A limited competitive examination for a vacancy for a 3rd Grade Local Clerk will be held on Monday, 16th November, 1936.

Applications for selection to complete should reach the Naval Store Officer, H.M. Dockyard, not later than Tuesday next, 10th November.

Laureates playing off the Praya, traffic in Queen's Road, hawkers, etc., are not restricted in any way, and make such a continuous noise that there is no silence, and as a result even the singing of the hymn, and National Anthem is quite inaudible.

Next Wednesday will be the first Armistice day of the new reign—of the reign of a King who is himself an ex-Serviceman. Would it be too much to ask Government to do all it can to see it is fittingly observed?
—EX-SERVICE.

Aviation Church Service

Sir, On Sunday, November 15, an Aviation Service will be held in St. John's Cathedral at 11 o'clock.
This, no doubt, will be of great interest to the air-minded people of Hongkong, as it will be a similar service to that held in Canterbury Cathedral earlier this year when the flags of the Royal Air Force, Civil Aviation and Imperial Airways were presented. In the Aviation Service to be held on November 15 only the Civil Aviation Ensign and Imperial Airways House Flag will be deposited for safe custody.
It is hoped that particularly those who have served in any form in connection with aviation will attend this Service.

P. E. BASKETT,
S. R. KERR.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON SERMON

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Hongkong

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Christian Science Churches to-morrow, November 8, will be "Adam and Fallen Man."

The Golden Text will be: "They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God."
(Romans 9: 3.)

Amongst others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of Life in Christ Jesus has made me free from the law of sin and death. For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh; That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For they that are after the flesh, do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit, do mind the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded, is life and peace; because the carnal mind is enmity towards God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. So then they that are after the flesh, cannot please God.
But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. (Romans 8: 1-9.)

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

"The son of the Virgin-Mother unfaded the remedy for Adam, or error; and the apostle Paul explains this warfare between the idea of divine power, which Jesus presented, and mythological material intelligence called energy and opposed to Spirit. 'As the individual idea of Truth, Christ Jesus came to rebuke and destroy error, and all sin, sickness and death,—to point out the way of Truth and Life. This ideal was demonstrated throughout the whole earthly career of Jesus, showing the difference between the offspring of Soul and of material sense, of Truth and of error. John saw the human and divine coincident, shown in the man Jesus, as divinity embracing humanity in Life and its demonstration, reducing to human perception and understanding the Life which is God. In divine revelation, material and corporeal selfhood disappear, and the spiritual idea is understood.
There is but one spiritual existence;
—the Life of which corporeal sense can take no cognisance. The divine Principle of man speaks through immortal sense. The standard of perfection was originally God and man. The God taken down His own standard, and has man fallen? God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man remaining perfect, the divine idea or reflection man, remains perfect. Man is the expression of God's being. (Pages 534, 30, 561, 72, 470.)

nothing of profit and get no real coaching. I incline to think a place in the first is the best thing where he can be coached—and any tendency to an outside in hats dealt with satisfactorily. The Club have adopted this policy with Holden and I rather think that he and Baxter are about on the same rung of the cricket ladder. By the way I seem to remember there was a very promising lad called (I think) Hulce. I wonder what has become of him?

TO-DAY'S GAMES

For the first time that I can ever recollect it all sides have league games fixed this afternoon. There is no doubt that the action taken by the management of the League over fixtures—a step I have advocated for years—has made the fixture lists very much better.

I do not imagine that the advantage of playing on their own ground will be sufficient to enable Craigie-gower to beat the I.R.C. The Civil Service have a fair chance against the University unless Gosno comes off too well. But there is no doubt that the other two games are very open. K.C.C. are at home to the Army and have not got the services of Willy Hung—I fear their bowling will not be good enough to beat the Army unless Goodwin and R. Lee both strike their best form. On the other hand the Army have one or two players who are definitely state, and may not come up in execution to the ability of the side as it stands on paper.

Then again there is the question of what sort of a side the Navy will turn out. With Davis, Cochrane, Hayter, Colmore, Prowse, Harper and A. B. Marsh they have the nucleus of a good side. I believe there are several more very useful players about, but I am not sure who is going to keep wicket. The Club have much the same side as usual. I see that Wodehouse is not playing—and J. F. Leys I don't know. Duckitt told me when asked that his arm would not let him bowl this season so they are a bit short though I seem to remember G. A. Stewart used to bowl.

THE SECOND DIVISION

The usual second games take place for the first League sides except that Army have no actual second eleven. Army A is at home at Soekunpoo to K.C.C. II, while Recreation and Police respectively entertain Army C and Army B. I fancy R.N. II, I.R.C. II and Civil Service II (perhaps) to win—no other prophecies.

PRETTY WEDDING

MR. J. C. V. RIBEIRO AND MISS M.C. JORGE

The wedding was solemnized at the Rosary Church this morning between Miss Marilla Carolina Jorge and Mr. Julio Carmo Vieira Ribeiro, Jr. The Rev. Father Rossi officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Telles Jorge of 21, Jordan Road, while the bridegroom is the son of Mr. Ribeiro, of Maxim and Co., and Mrs. Ribeiro.

Entering the Church on the arm of her father, the bride looked charming in a heavy white satin gown with puffed train. Her long tulle veil was held in place by a tiara of orange blossom. She carried white gladioli.

Attending the bride were the Misses Lucia Jorge (sister of the bride), Elsa Ribeiro (sister of the bridegroom) and Stella Hyndman. They were attired in white water-wave tulle gowns and carried bouquets of double cosmos.

Little Miss Virginia Jorge Ribeiro was flower-girl. A navy blue silk gown with polka dots was chosen by the bride's

STRANGE WILL BAN No Man Must Enter Women's House

MEN and boys are banned from entering a house under the will of a former blacksmith, a man of no education, who has left a fortune of $260,000.

William Henry Baxter, of Harrogate, who died on September 1 at the age of eighty-seven, was the son of a blacksmith's striker.

His first wage was 4s. a week. With £50 borrowed he later began the manufacture of a stone-breaking machine of his own invention.

Mr. Baxter left his house, Knap-ping Mount, and an allowance of £120 a month to his former house-keepers, Mrs. Todd and her sister, Miss Thorntorn, on condition that no man or boy ever enters the house.

Mr. Edward Nash, of Harrogate, a close friend of Mr. Baxter, and one of the executors of the will, told a newspaperman that Mr. Baxter had probably inserted that clause because of his religious convictions.

"Mr. Baxter wrote sixteen pamphlets on religion and a system of living designed to ensure longevity. He had several brothers and sisters who were weaklings and who died early in life."

It was probably because of this that he set himself to evolve a system of living which, in his own case, has had excellent results. When his wife died about ten years ago, he vowed that another man should not enter the house.

Convict Risks Sharks To Save Insects

Port of Spain
(Trinidad), Oct. 25.

FIVE convicts who escaped from Devil's Island, penal settlement in French Guiana, on September 19, have reached here after braving the terrors of the Cayenne jungle and 700 miles of sea—in which sharks abound.

They crawled stealthily at dead of night from their log cabins in the heart of the town of St. Laurent, dug out of the fifth of the river Maroni a small store of water and food they had hidden there, and stole a small, unseaworthy Indian canoe. Then they made their dash for freedom.

Their arrival at Trinidad brings the total of fugitives seeking haven here in the last three months to nearly 20.

At Bathing Beach

The haggard, sun-scorched men arrived on the popular bathing beach on South Island, and a crowd saw them taken in charge by police, who rushed them to Port of Spain. There Salvationists gave them a hearty meal.

Two of the runaways are French, one an Italian, one Belgian, and the other Corsican.

Most of their 14-day voyage was done without water and much of it without food.

One of the Frenchmen, 40-year-old Edmund Gattuso, during their voyage leaped into the Caribbean to save butterflies, snakes and insects which he had spent more than three years collecting since his release from close imprisonment.

He stated that he had become so attached to his collection that when it fell overboard he jumped into the sea, dangerously rocking their frail craft, and swam more than 200 yards to regain his only treasure.

You MUST take these Precautions...

NEGLECTED teeth and gums lead to a multitude of troubles. Beauty vanishes, health is affected. Proper care demands that you see your dentist periodically and let him remedy any trouble that has developed. Also brush your teeth regularly with Squibb Dental Cream.

This scientific dentifrice is antacid. It neutralizes the Germ Acids which cause decay. Such acids form in the Danger Zone, which is the space between teeth, the imperfections in the enamel and where teeth meet gums. They come from fermenting food particles beyond reach of the tooth brush.

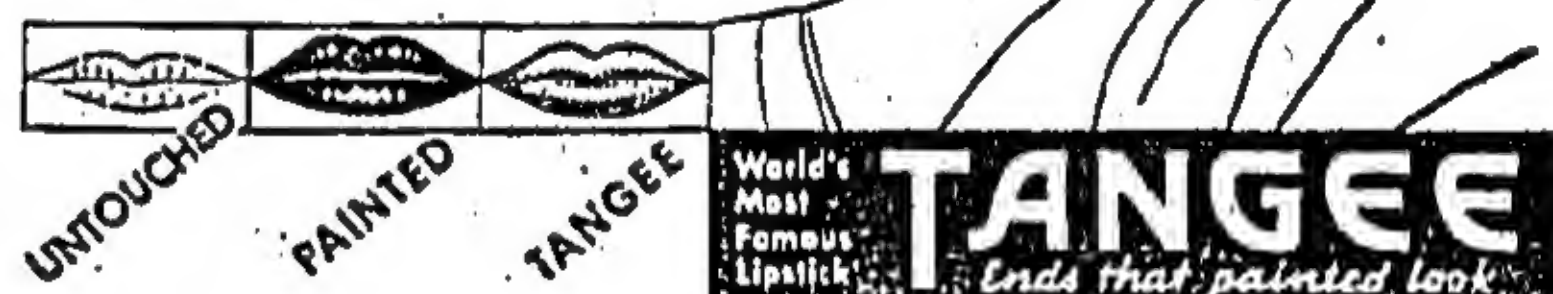

Dentifrices that simply clean do not offer sufficient protection. Guard the Danger Zone with Squibb Dental Cream. It is safe, pleasant and economical.

Hypnotism To Cure Infatuation

U.S. PROFESSOR'S SUCCESS

New York, Oct. 21.
The successful use of hypnotism to rid a young man of infatuation for another's wife was described by Professor H. W. Martin, of Emory College, Atlanta.

He said the experiment was carried out on the advice of a doctor, and he vowed that it would only be effective in certain instances. The subject had sought to end his infatuation, but he appeared powerless to combat it.

"When he first came to my office I would not have been surprised to see him jump through the window; glass and all, he was so nervous and irritable."

The professor put him into a trance, gave him a good lecture and succeeded in eliminating moral conflict. "After hypnotic treatment, he was quite a different individual."

STUDY IN PSYCHOLOGY

Professor Martin said the College was not conducting a clinic, but was interested in hypnotism as a study in psychological principles. He still believes it is a science with a bright future "when it is better understood and appreciated."

He said the broken infatuation showed that hypnotism can eliminate inclinations or tendencies not too thoroughly established. "The individual cannot be forced to be hypnotized, but if he is willing to co-operate with the operator he does not have to believe in hypnotism to be brought under its influence. Hypnotism will lessen the will power of the subject only if practised repeatedly on the same individual. The chief danger is that it will become a habit."

CROWN JEWELS "SCARE" AT THE TOWER

Alarm Bell Calls
Armed Guard
MANY "PRISONERS"

Alarm bells rang in the Tower of London one day last month. Excited visitors, rushing towards the Wakefield Tower, where the Crown Jewels are kept, heard sharp words of command, the clatter of military boots, and the thud of rifle-balls on the cobbles.

When the first alarm bell sounded the guard turned on. They formed up before the entrance to the Wakefield Tower. For ten minutes the bell rang on.

Visitors and guard, mystified, waited, for only the entrance of an unauthorised person into the inner cage where the Crown Jewels lie can set going the mechanism which makes the alarm ring.

But at the end of the ten minutes no failed smash-and-grab raiders appeared under arrest. The guard was dismissed. The visitors drifted away.
It was all a mistake.

Whose mistake it was nobody could discover. The Newspaper Proprietors' Association had obtained permission to photograph the Regalia for publication when the Coronation draws near. At lunch time the photographers stopped work. As the shutters which guard the Jewels were closed, the alarm went off. Just like that.

DISAPPOINTED VISITORS

Automatically, all entrances to the Jewel Room were closed. Until the alarm stopped, photographers, guards, and officials were held prisoner.

Visitors to the Tower had already been mystified before the alarm rang.
The approach of the Coronation has heightened the attraction of the Crown Jewels, and many visitors overlooked the notice which said that the public would not be admitted to the Jewel Room for two days.

When they approached the stairs leading up to the Jewel Room they found the way barred by two Wardens, who indicated sternly through a grille that the rest of the Tower was at their disposal. Outside the Jewel Room a sentry with fixed bayonet patrolled.

Earlier in the morning the photographers and other officials presented their permits, specially issued by the Lord Chamberlain. Carefully, the guards at the entrance to the Wakefield Tower checked the names against a list supplied to them. In the Jewel Room itself more Wardens were on guard. The Keeper of the Crown Jewels, Major-General Sir George Youngblood, and the Crown Jeweller, were present.

IMPERIAL STATE CROWNS

Carefully the Crown Jeweller took the St. Edward's Crown and the rest of the Regalia which will be used at the Coronation, together with the two Imperial State Crowns and the Crown worn by William of Orange, from the cases.

The photographers knew exactly how the shots were to be taken, for

A Berlin judge to-day sentenced him to six years' imprisonment and a fine of £50, all that was left from his heart-breaking career.

The widow, rich and lonely, applied to a marriage agency for a second husband. She received a reply, met a man who called himself Werner. He was just what she wanted, handsome, a "perfect lover," apparently swimming in money.

She went out with him in his chauffeur-driven car to expensive night clubs, restaurants. He told her of his big industrial deals, made a promise of marriage.

One day, however, he spilt the picture by suggesting that she should "lend" him £3,000 to help him over a temporary embarrassment.

Suspicious, the widow put him off, noted the number of his car and telephoned to police headquarters.
She said: "My car has been rammed by another car. Could you give me the name of the owner?"

TRACKED HIM

She gave the number, was told the name. It was not Werner, it was Schuetzenuebel. The widow turned detective, traced the man's movements.

She found there were other women who had received the same promise of marriage, given him their savings. She informed the police.

Pleased at finding a man they had been looking for for two years the police arrested Schuetzenuebel.

At to-day's trial his victims, one of whom had tried to commit suicide when she found out the truth about her "dancer," told how they had been parted from their money by his charm.

Schuetzenuebel's trump card in his courting was to sit down at the piano and play hymns and anthem, his favourite being "So take my hand." Then he proposed.

He paid for expensive parties given to one woman from money obtained from another.

He was found guilty of obtaining £10,000 from seven women under promises of marriage.

Looking Forward To --Night Out In 1971

Deputy-Judge Tudor Rees, at Willesden County Court recently, made an order for the payment at the rate of eight shillings a month of a substantial sum of money.

Said he to the defendant: "It will take you about 35 years to pay this off. When you come to the end of it I hope you and those to whom you are paying the money will have a night out on the strength of the last instalment."

the difficulty of working in such confined quarters had made it necessary to hold a dress rehearsal in the studio, with plaster copies of the Regalia. Special lighting arranged by the Office of Works was used to modify the blaze of the Jewels, which included the great ruby given to the Coronation, together with Henry V. at Agincourt, and now set in one of the Imperial State Crowns.

Since photographs are being taken both plain and in colour, the work will take two days to complete.

CAPITAL SHIPS
STILL NEEDED.

The idea prevalent in some quarters that the battleship is obsolete, in that it would have little chance against attack by bombing aeroplanes and that it is vulnerable to submarine attack, is assailed by the report of the sub-committee of the Committee of Imperial Defence which has made an exhaustive study of the subject. Although it is recognised that the matter calls for further investigation, the opinion is definitely given that the day of capital ships is not over, and that to cease to build them would lead to grave risks.

The finding is in accord with a recent statement by the First Lord of the Admiralty, when he stated that experts had reached the unanimous conclusion that the capital ship is still essential to the maintenance of British security. While no-one can pretend to foresee with precision the lines along which the next war, if one breaks out, will develop, it is reassuring to know from competent sources that the British Fleet is not so much scrap-iron. Recent events have, however, brought out with painful emphasis that, in pursuit of the ideal of disarmament while others have armed at an increasing rate, the efficiency of the British Fleet had been allowed to deteriorate very seriously. Much has been done and will be done to remedy that state of affairs. A costly scheme of reconditioning of warships is in progress, and the building of new vessels is being expedited. This will all take time, but progress has been greater than was expected, and we have the comforting knowledge that at no very distant date the Navy will again be equipped to discharge to the full its manifold responsibilities. While the battleship is not displaced by the bomber, it is essential that we should be so strong in the air that any nation will think thrice before attacking us. This, happily, is also a cardinal part in the Government's defence plans. It has been laid down as a principle from which there is no escape that our air defences must be as strong as those of any nation within striking distance of Britain's shores. But if Britain is determined to see to her security, it is equally plain, as Mr. Eden has stated, that we have no desire to inter-meddle in the affairs of other. Our defence is solely for own protection, and the value of strong fighting forces in the preservation of world peace is beyond question.

Two years ago he made a prolonged visit to Chile representing important London interests concerned in reorganising the nitrate trade and last year he went to Athens on behalf of a London financial group interested in Greek Treasury Bills.

He Will Put New Life Into Old Business with China

REMEMBERED in Hongkong commercial circles is William Maccolin Kirkpatrick, the M.P. who is coming East to help increase British trade in China. He is 58 in two months' time and is an experienced London business man.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, knows the Orient and its commercial customs as few Londoners do, and everyone will agree that the British Government has taken a wise step in appointing him to assist the trade attaché at Nanking.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, who started life in an eastern exchange bank, was in Delhi for many years as an importer of British textiles, so he understands the point of view of the importer as well as of the British exporter.

WHILE Mr. Kirkpatrick was in India he took an active part in the co-operative credit movement in Bengal and served on several local committees, including the Council of the Asiatic Society of Bengal and the Calcutta Zoological Society.

He was responsible for the pioneer development of basic mineral properties in Orissa.

When Mr. Kirkpatrick returned to England in 1923 he contested the Preston division as Conservative candidate but was not elected until five years ago.

BEFORE he leaves for China Mr. Kirkpatrick will spend a short time in the London office of the Export Credit Department of the Board of Trade.

He has, however, well equipped by knowledge and experience for his new post. While he was in India he was a partner of the late Lord Cable in Fird and Company, of Calcutta, and has since visited the Far East on various occasions for special purposes.

the following two years was vice-Chief of general staff.

In 1934 he did good work as the special goodwill envoy to Tibet and in 1935 and this year, headed the commission on Mongolian and Tibetan affairs. He was transferred to his present important post on July 20 and is also reserve member of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee.

With H. E. Mr. Huang Mu-sung as Chairman of Kwangtung, the exchange of courtesy calls marks the beginning of a new and pleasant era of understanding between Hongkong and South China.

A Mayor Arrives

ANOTHER important official of Kwangtung who accompanied the Chairman on his visit to Hongkong, was His Excellency Mr. Tseng Yang-fu, Mayor of Canton since July and a leader in the reform of the Province. Also a native of Kwangtung, Mr. Tseng was a graduate of the Peking and Pittsburgh Universities. In 1928, when 36 years old, he became vice-Chairman of the National Reconstruction Commission, following naturally a few years later to the post of Commissioner of Reconstruction in Chekiang Provincial Government.

He has been a member of Kuomintang Central Executive Committee since March, 1929 and has been Political Vice-Minister of Railways.

Babes at Sea

RECENTLY mention was made of a bachelor sea Captain, well-known in Hongkong and on the China Coast, who brought twins into the world in mid-Pacific.

The full story in the captain's own words is now to hand. The hero of the story is Capt. W. J. Irvine.

A knock at the captain's cabin door at midnight began this strangest of sea dramas.

One of the six passengers on board the ship—the Silver Beech

(5,311 tons)—was standing in the gangway. "My wife is expecting a baby," he stammered.

Captain Irvine stared. There was no doctor on board. He had no medical experience. The nearest ship was two days' sailing away. He had to act alone.

THE Silver Beech was bound from San Francisco to Manila in the Philippine Islands, when this happened," said Captain Irvine in an interview with the London Daily Mirror.

"I was in a quandary. Our radio operator tried to get in touch with a ship carrying a doctor.

"The nearest ship was 700 miles away—but finally a doctor was located on the tiny island of Guam, used as a base for the Pan-American trans-Pacific air liners.

"The doctor ordered the air waves to be cleared for 300 miles around, and then, by Morse, explained to me the duties of my new role.

"With the aid of my chief steward, I carefully carried out the doctor's orders. A 4lb. baby was born and I was attending to it in another part of the cabin when the steward called me back to assist in the birth of a second baby.

I HAVE had some exciting times during twenty-six years at sea, including a spell of service in the Dardanelles during the War, but bringing twins into the world at sea was the last duty I expected," added Capt. Irvine.

The children, both girls, were called Sylvia Beech and Silver Bath Klason after the ship.

When the Silver Beech arrived at Manila the regular quarantine customs were waived and a doctor sent on board. He complimented the captain on his skill as an amateur doctor.

The owners of the vessel, the Silver Line, Ltd., have presented the babies with silver cups.

His Wife Flew Away

JIM MOLLISON, husband of the famous aviatrix Amy, has carved off a fair portion of fame for himself. It was a record-breaking flight by Jim from England to the Cape that brought these two together and if ever a couple were wedded by the public, Jim and Amy were.

A prelude to another record by Jim, his flight across the Atlantic, was Amy's announcement of their intention to separate, after four years of married life.

Mollison is 31 years of age. He served in the Royal Air Force for five years; was a commercial pilot in Australia. In 1931 he flew from Australia to England in the then record time of eight days 22 hours 25 minutes and the following year flew to the Cape from England to break a record later lowered by his wife. Then he flew solo across the North Atlantic and the South Atlantic. In 1933 Jim and his wife together crossed the Atlantic from east to west.

A lot of bright young lads went up in the air on Tuesday. . . . The "Hermes" returned.

The famous Ballets Jooss may visit Hongkong. Japs the thing to pep us up.

A particularly enthusiastic Peak gardener was overheard to assert that he had tomatoes as big as gooseberries. Others, we understand, are trying to keep up.

If many more golfers do that hole in one at Deep Water Bay, it may be expedient to fill it up.

It is asserted in some quarters that Hongkong is rapidly approaching a boom. Must refer to the forthcoming naval and military manoeuvres.

So the Republican candidate didn't London his feet after all.

About the only thing from which some people are unable to dissociate themselves is an inferiority complex.

Now that the wearing of political uniforms is to be prohibited at Home, we wonder what the Socialists will do with their red ties?

The Green Island Company's product would be a good thing for cementing the relations between Hongkong and Canton.

We notice that frost is being predicted for Hongkong in February. That'll be a change from the hot air which we encounter almost daily.

This ban on political uniforms should mean that there'll be plenty of cheap bargains in black shirts at Home.

Last week he lowered the Atlantic record from west to east by 10 hours flying solo as preparation for another England to the Cape venture.

In March, 1933, it was freely stated that Mollison was engaged to Lady Diana Wellesley, the 18-years-old daughter of Clare, Countess Cowley. Countess Cowley stated then that Diana was too young and would have to wait.

Miss China's Wings

A PART from a few "big names" women have not adopted flying as a hobby, but things may be different in the future and Miss China does not mean to be pushed out of the picture.

When a new school for training civil pilots was opened at Shanghai recently, Miss Lee Yaching, the well-known Chinese aviatrix, was a guest of honour and introduced the first girl student at the school, Miss Yang Ching-hsun.

Another Chinese woman flier who is fairly well-known, particularly in America, is Miss Chang Sui-fen. She gave a spectacular display of stunt flying during the Double-Tenth celebrations in San Francisco last year.

MALAYA has its own Chinese "Amy Johnson." She is Miss Wong Chew Wan, of Kuala Lumpur, and her flights up and down the country have earned for her a good deal of publicity.

She joined the Kuala Lumpur Flying Club more than two years ago and under expert tuition soon became accustomed to piloting a plane and handling the controls.

She passed the test for the "A" licence six months after she joined the club. Last year she made a flight through the peninsula and was given a big reception by friends in Penang.

MISS Wong who is 22, was still a student at school when she got her licence.

She arrived in Singapore on her first flight through Malaya accompanied by the Rev. D. H. Yap and Mr. Loke Yik Foo, having piloted a D. H. Moth, owned by Mr. Loke Wan Yat, of Kuala Lumpur.

Shows From The Side-Lines

BY FIRST NIGHT

TO-NIGHT is big night at both H.K.H. and Gloucester, with new stars making bows to local socialites at both places for first time.

Eula and Bob, who did not arrive until Thursday morning, hopped straight into rehearsals in the afternoon, are all "hot" up now for their debut in the Roof Garden.

Watched these two latest importations doing their stuff yesterday morning, and consider them something really out of the box. One of the numbers, the "Karabell", is probably one of the most artistic verisimilitude movements seen in Hongkong.

The young couple have been touring around most times since they graduated from a ballet dancing academy in the States. They were on the famous J. C. Williamson circuit in Australia, played prominent parts in "No, No, Nanette", "Student Prince", etc., type of plays which this page hopes our local Philharmonic Society will tackle in near future.

On their first visit to the Far East, Bob and Eula think this part of the world "grand", are counting on a long stay in order to get "properly acquainted". Judging by their popularity in Shanghai, where they contracted with the Park Hotel was twice extended, they will be still here well after Christmas.

Bob and Bertie Bellman, who will also be there Saturday night to greet old friends, have entered their third month at the Roof Garden, look as if they've established themselves in Hongkong for keeps. Their wizardry at the piano has certainly endeared them to Roof Garden habitués.

GLoucester Hotel, which opened its new ballroom with such a flourish less than three months ago, does not intend to lose its grip in the future. Like their friends the enemy

Especially noteworthy this year is Philharmonic's concentration on ballets and dance sequences, where they have been noticeably weak in past. In capable hands of George Gorcharov, who is undoubtedly the leading dancing instructor in the Colony and who, I hear, is giving his services voluntarily to the Philharmonic, the chorus is rapidly shaping up to professional standards.

Pleased with the way the Rev. Cyril Brown is bringing forth all that is best from embarrassing surplus of talent, Philharmonic, I hear, are planning to produce yet another play before the end of the present season.

ORCHIDS to Nigel Waymouth and the A.D.C. for their rendering of "Night Must Fall" (For the benefit of the exoteric public, this is the approved style of eulogy as used by the American newspaper columnists). Having seen Evelyn Williams, star-author, in Don's part in London, I strolled along last Wednesday to the China Fleet Club, half hoping that all seats would be filled. They weren't, more's the pity for the A.D.C. But the lip that came to snarl remained to cheer. Smith-Wright has made a nice job of a tricky piece of drama, but in Waymouth he's got good material. Next comes Fay Grossman who sacrifices her good looks for a fine character part. There is better acting in this than "Lovers' Leap", but don't come after 9.15 or you'll miss Gekston Gilmore's classy cannon of the Lord Chief Justice, A.D.C. should stop those tardy bounds who spoiled Gilmore's opening on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

JEEVES

Will Be Played By The Screen's Greatest Butler

By Connery Chappell

THE rudest man in Hollywood is also its best butler.

Arthur Veary Treacher has now butted in something like 400 films; he has waited at table on so many stars that his temper is frayed, his nerves on edge, and his appreciation of good food seriously blighted.

That is why he is rude.

No man has a more downright honesty about the film city.

I have sat on a set there and heard him make remarks which made me shiver with embarrassment.

Haughty Homes

Now, after endless butting around in the batonial halls, usually equipped with modern spittoons, which Hollywood insists on as representing the haughty homes of Eng-

THANK YOU, JEEVES

I wiped the brow. "Jeeves," I said, "I feel like a lost child that has found its mother."
"Indeed, sir?"
"If you don't mind me calling you a mother?"
"Not at all, sir."
"Thank you, Jeeves."
Sample of Jeeves-Wooster dialogue from "Thank You, Jeeves."

Ten years ago, before the depression, America had a queer profession whose members were known as "ribbers."

They would be hired to attend banquets and small guests.

The moment the guest discovered he was being "ribbed," the rest of the table rained with laughter.

Nice Insults

So did the victim, after realising that he wasn't fooling the bill.

Treacher would have made the world's best "ribber."

He has a genius for hurling insults so nicely that people swallow them.

Nearly eleven years ago he made his last appearance in England, in a Drury Lane show everyone has forgotten, including the backers who lost the usual fortune on it.

Then, going to the New York stage, he was whisked off to Hollywood, at which he pours a non-stop string of satirical sallies.

Destined to play the part of the perfectly imperfect Englishman, the type of ass who only exists in the secret dream that people at home will really think he is libelling them.

"I only do it for the money, you know," he assured me seriously.

So, as Jeeves, this oft-4-in-lath wears the heaviest of overcoats in the height of summer.

"I tried to tell them that you don't wear an overcoat in London in July," he moaned, "but it's no use."

Aided by an all-English cast which includes Virginia Field, daughter of a London K.C., and David Niven, who either is or is not going to marry Merle Oberon, in case any of you care, Treacher is now busy preparing the broad vowel for the wide acres.

He is being supervised by Irving Collins, a talented young Englishman who, like Treacher, was at Drury Lane shortly after the war, and who is now one of Hollywood's most successful comedy directors.

Shirley Loves Him

Unlike Treacher, Collins never insults people; he prefers to play golf, which he does indifferently.

But Treacher, who lives in a house overlooking Hollywood Boulevard, and who has his Scotch imported from home because "you simply can't drink this local poison, you know, old man," does not play golf.

BERTIE'S HISTORY

Jeeves, perfect butler of the famous P. G. Wodehouse man-about-town hero, Bertie Wooster, first appeared as a short-story figure—at the end of the war.

Since then his adventures have earned his creator one of the largest of contemporary literary fortunes.

At one time P. G. W. earned £400 a week in Hollywood—for "doing nothing," according to his own version.

Jeeves has been seen on the stage, and is now to be filmed. The ideal butler will be portrayed by Arthur Treacher, who has played butlers in approximately 400 American pictures.

land, Treacher has become a top-line feature player.

Fox-Twentieth Century have signed him to play Jeeves, greatest of Wodehouse characters, in "Thank You, Jeeves."

And Treacher, in his element now that he can assert himself as a star, is having a grand time insulting everybody.

Don't imagine that this tall, thin, light-colored actor with the bird-like face is objectionable; far from it.

Rudeness is his pose, rather like the emaciated accents affected by so many of the British colony in that same town.

If Treacher couldn't walk up to an American producer and tell him that the Mayflower made a serious mistake in not going south and thus preventing a painful reproduction of species, he wouldn't be happy.

So the Americans, who generally have a sense of humour, like him for it.

Arthur Treacher has played 400 butlers. Now to be Jeeves in "Thank You, Jeeves."

I never, in the times I met him, found out exactly what he thought about it all. He had known what it was to be broke, and had had the choice experience of queuing up for chorus jobs at a time when he should have been playing leads.

Cash Value

Then, in the way it happens, he found himself earning a lot more than he was worth playing parts quite unworthy of him.

Although he hates his string of screen butlers, he at least knows how many milk bills they foot.

He had known, too, what popularity meant, for if a vote were taken among the natives Treacher would probably be the most popular Englishman in the town among the featured players.

But one night, as he stared at the sun dipping below Laurel Canyon, flaring the city in the last few minutes of daylight, he turned round and said:

"It pays fantastic money, old chap. But, of course, it really isn't real."

says Mr. Peppercorn:

THE noble sport of stag hunting on Exmoor begins this month, and I just mention it in case some of you might have forgotten, and be planning some other sort of holiday. The harbours will have spotted where a "warrantable" stag is resting, and the tuffets will have routed him out of his cover. Tuffing is a very thing job for the huntsman, I'm told, but I dare say the stag enjoys being chivied about for a couple of hours, when at last he is taken to the open country and finds the pack and three hundred riders, fresh as paint, waiting for him, he calls it a day—and it's generally his last.

Jeeves "butting" in the "Strand" magazine.

But he has one great distinction. He is Shirley Temple's favourite film actor—you remember them together in "Curly Top."

The Slave Ships

I MUST speak now of the transit of the slaves to the West Indies. This, I confess, is in my opinion the most wretched part of the whole subject. So much misery condensed in so little room is more than the human imagination had ever before conceived. I will not accuse the Liverpool merchants. I will allow them—nay, I will believe them—to be men of humanity. I verily believe that, if the wretchedness of any one of the many hundred negroes stowed in each ship could be brought before their view, there is no one among them whose heart would bear it. Let anyone imagine to himself six or seven hundred of these wretches, chained two and two, surrounded with every object that is nauseous and disgusting, diseased and struggling under every kind of misery!

In order, however, not to trust too much to any sort of description, I will call the attention of the House to one species of evidence which is absolutely infallible. Death, at least, is a sure ground of proof; and the proportion of deaths will not only confirm—it will, if possible, even aggravate—our suspicions of their misery in the transit.

SPEECH BY WILLIAM WILBERFORCE, May 12, 1789, in the house of Commons, bringing forward his Motion for the Abolition of the Slave Trade.

Upon the whole there is a mortality of about 50 per cent., and this among negroes who are not bought unless quite healthy at first, unless—as the phrase is with cattle—they are "sound in wind and limb." How, then, can the House refuse its belief to the multiplied testimonies before the Privy Council of the savage treatment of the negroes in the Middle Passage? Nay, indeed, what need a there of any testimony? The number of deaths speaks for itself and makes all such inquiry superfluous.

As soon as I had arrived thus far in my investigation of the Slave Trade, I confess to you, Sir, so enormous, so dreadful, so irremediable did its wickedness appear that my own mind was completely made up for the abolition. A trade founded in iniquity and carried on as this was must be abolished, let the policy be what it might. Let the consequences be what they would, I from this time determined that I would never rest until I had effected its abolition. Such enormities as these having once come within my knowledge, I should not have been faithful to the sight of my eyes, to the use of my senses and my reason, if I had shrunk from attempting the abolition.

ODE

We are the music makers,
And we are the dreamers of dreams,
Wandering by lone sea-breakers
And sitting by desolate streams;
World losers and world for-sakers,
On whom the pale moon
gleams:
Yet we are the movers and shakers
Of the world for ever, it seems.
With wonderful deathless ditties
We build up the world's great cities:
And out of a fabulous story
We fashion an empire's glory:
One man with a dream, at pleasure,
Shall go forth and conquer a crown;
And three with a new song's measure
Can trample an empire down.
We, in the ages lying
In the buried past of the earth,
Built Nineveh with our sighing
And Babel itself with our mirth;
And o'erthrew them with prophesying
To the old of the new world's worth;
For each age is a dream that is dying.
Or one that is coming to birth.

WEEK-END PROBLEMS

By Hubert Phillips
PROBLEM I

SIR ROGER'S WILL

"I am convinced," wrote Seckwell to Professor Toomer, "that the document is genuine. This is the gist of it. (I have, however, modernised the spelling):

"This is the last will of me, Roger Rackham, Knight, of Rumpston Friars in the County of Huntingdon, a Standard-Bearer, to His Majesty King Charles the First, Justice of the Peace, Master of Arts in the University of Cambridge. I give and bequeath all monies and other property of which I die possessed to my dear son, Humphrey. . . . Given under my hand and seal this eighth of October, in the year of our Lord 1633. (Signatures of witnesses, etc., follow.)"

Professor Toomer, having read the above, was at once able to appreciate that the document could not possibly be genuine.

Why?

PROBLEM II

ARROW'S FLIGHT

A new streamlined monoplane has been constructed which is capable of enormous speeds. Captain Arrow recently flew this machine over a course which is the outline of a perfect square. He flew the first side of the square at 100 m.p.h., the second at 200 m.p.h., the third at 300 m.p.h., and the fourth at 400 m.p.h. What was his average speed over the whole course?

PROBLEM III

PRIMES

"You're the Prime Minister, aren't you, Mr. Calculus?" asked the King of Mathematics.

"Yes, Sir," said Calculus.

"Then here is a little problem for you. Divide 1,000 into two prime numbers which are such that each is also a prime number when its digits are reversed."

Can you do this?

IS YOUR ENGLISH CORRECT?

ALL . . . NOT

"All men are not fools."
This, usually, is intended to mean—"Not all men are fools."
But it can also mean—"All men are not-fools (i.e., wise)."
This ambiguity should be avoided.

EXPERT

If an adjective it is ex-pert.
"He is an ex-pert musician."
If a noun it is expert. "He is an expert."

COMPACT

If an adjective, it is com-pact.
"A com-pact piece of reasoning."
If a noun, it is com-pact. "The com-pact is binding."
So with

INSTINCT, CONVERSE, MINUTE, SUSPECT, CONTENT, MELODY AND HARMONY

These two words are often confused. The former means a "tune" or sequence of single notes.
"Harmony" means the simultaneous combination of notes in a chord of chords.

Girls' and Boys' Corner

Dear Kiddies:

Here is an exciting new competition for you! Jane and Jimmy are going to have some new clothes bought for them but have not decided what kind to have. How would you dress them? Draw the clothes that you would choose on the two figures shown here; use pencil or pen and ink, but do not colour them.

Now cut out the picture and paste it on to a card or piece of paper on which you have written your name, age and full address.

There will again be two prizes—one for children from 10 to 14 years, and another for those under 10. Address your entries to Uncle Eddie, c/o "Hongkong Telegraph," to reach him not later than 4 p.m. on Wednesday. Do your best, kiddies!

Some of you had trouble in sorting out all the articles in the picture last week; didn't you? Still, there were quite a large number of correct answers sent in.

After taking age, correctness and neatness into account, I find that the best senior effort sent in was that of Elinor Moffan (aged 10), 15 Stanley Terrace, Quarry Bay.

Among the juniors, the best entry was that of Reginald Martin (aged 8), 2 Humphreys Building, Kowloon.

Will the winners call at the "Telegraph" office for their prizes?

Commented for good work are Owen Hong Sing, Alfred Brown, Mimi da Roza, Muggle Alves, Peggy Prince, Elsa Laurel, Susie Fung, Stanley To, Winnie Ho, Betty Wandmore, Frank Hynes, Suen Ma-ink, and Mable Ho among the Seniors; and the following Juniors:—Jan Moffan, Denis Padgett, Jean Hamilton, Pinksy Silva, Peter Coom and Helen Logan.

Everybody's Beverage for Health this Winter

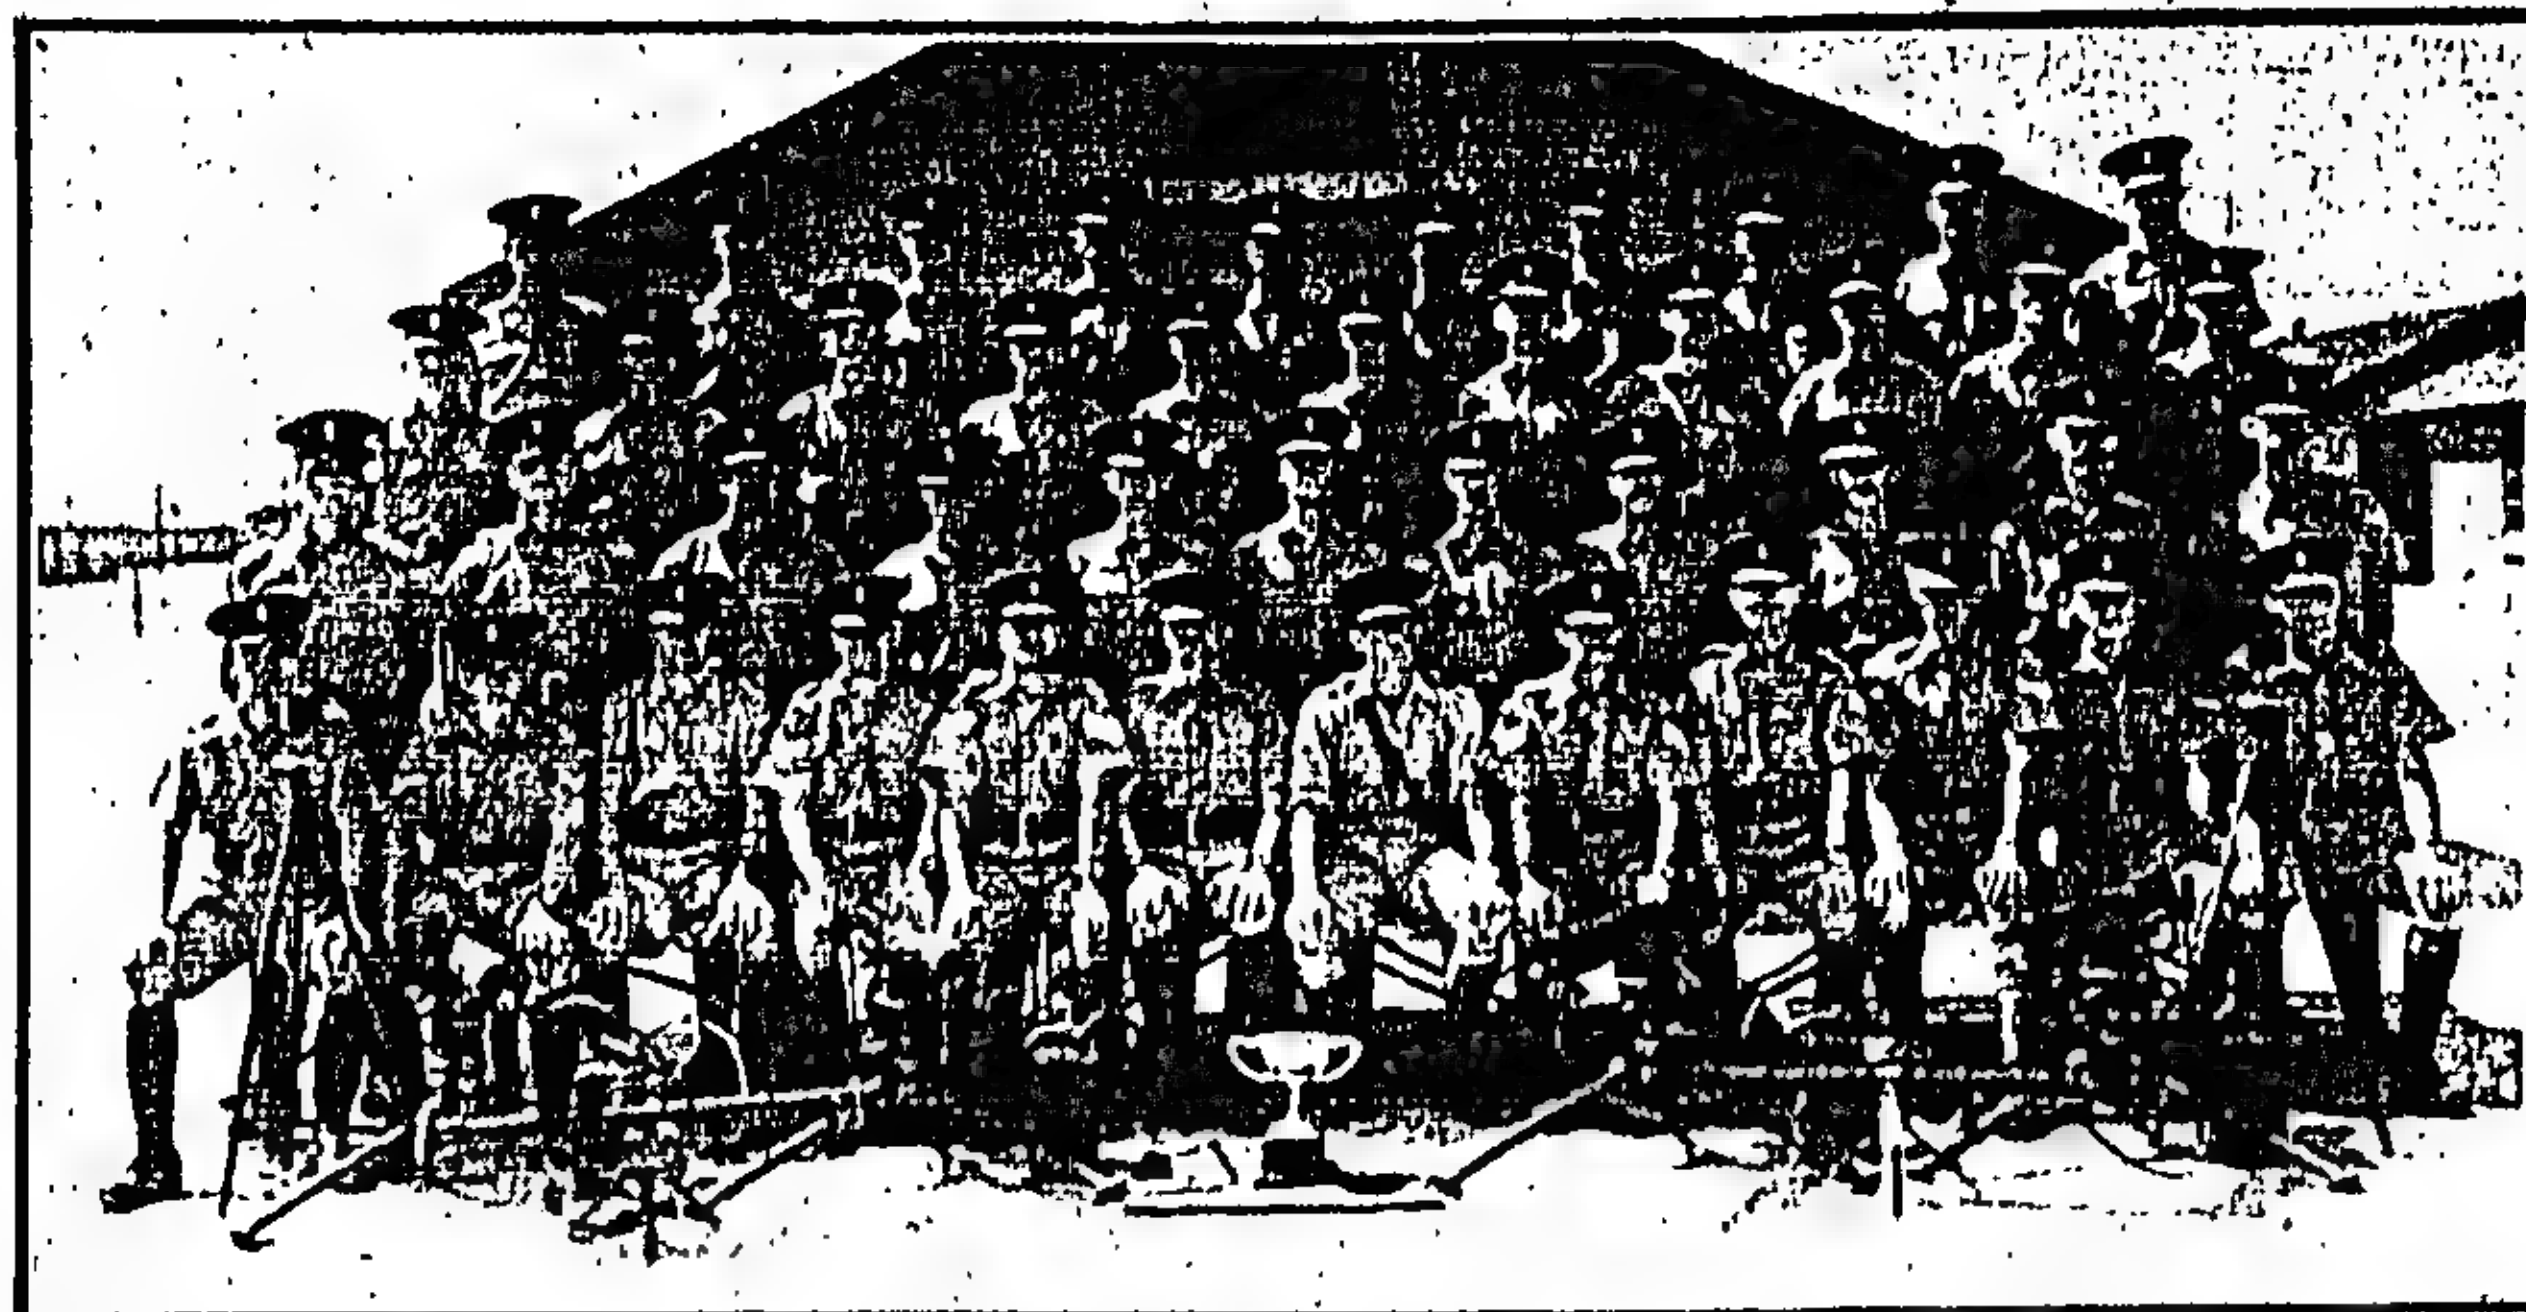

Definite reasons why 'OVALTINE' should be your safeguard against Winter Ailments

Year by year the supreme health-giving value of delicious 'Ovaltine' is more widely recognised. In the majority of homes throughout the world it is the favourite beverage for maintaining perfect physical fitness at all times—at all seasons. # Hongkong Is Being Flooded With Crime And Pornographic Books

APPALLING MENACE OF CHEAP IMPORTED SEX LITERATURE

GOVERNMENT MUST STOP THIS SERIOUS INCREASE IN FILTH AND CRIME MAGAZINES

THE "Telegraph" wishes to draw the attention of the authorities to the flood of obscene and lurid American periodicals now entering this Colony.

Regularly, by American boats, thousands of these "penny dreadfuls" and sex magazines are pouring into Hongkong and, through this Colony, into Kwangtung, to be eagerly bought up by morbid youth.

The "Telegraph" has witnessed hundreds of these magazines being taken across the border by smugglers, who thus evade the Chinese customs duty and, possibly, morality restrictions.

This week, two "Telegraph" representatives visited a prominent bookstall largely patronised by people who cross the harbour.

Crime magazines were on sale openly, and as soon as two or three were purchased, the attendant furtively brought several sex magazines from under the counter and offered them to the pressmen.

The articles and illustrations in advertisements are equally pointed the sex magazines are, to say the least, licentious and disgusting.

One magazine, published by the Detmold Publishing Company of Wilmington, Delaware, is liberally interspersed with photographs of nude white girls.

The short stories are devoted almost entirely to one subject, sexual intercourse.

Equally frank in this magazine are the advertisements, which offer "natural flesh coloured photos," "photos of men and women in interesting poses," "photos of couples," "beautiful girls to show everything to the best advantage," "entertainers showing a doctor's experience with his pretty patients," and so on. Other advertisements, offering drugs and sex appliances, appeal to nothing but the baser instincts.

Yet another pornographic magazine purchased on the bookstall in question is published by Movie Digest Inc., of New York.

Apparently, it takes in this magazine are to be believed, most of Hollywood's actresses spend their time completely disrobing before lascivious directors and agents.

Another magazine, published by the H. M. Publishing Co. of New York, has an "Art Supplement" devoted to photographs of nude or semi-nude women. Its tales and

WIFE TO STAND BY BIGAMOUS AIRMAN

By A Special Correspondent

"TELL my husband I will stand by him. Tell him to come back as soon as he can."

The young English wife of a South African airman of 33, Capt. Ian Raymond, who was sentenced at Cape Town recently to three months' imprisonment for bigamy, asked me to send this message to her husband. It was stated in court that Capt. Raymond had bigamously married Miss Edna Harper, whom he met in the liner which took him from England to South Africa.

Mrs. Raymond, whose home is in Phyllis-avenue, Molspur Park, Surrey, is 30, and the mother of a baby son. She was married at Bingley, Yorkshire last winter, and she and her husband moved to their home in Molspur Park in June.

"I WILL BE BRAVE"

She is still being attended by a nurse and was deeply grieved when she heard of the sentence. She said to me: "I know my husband is greatly devoted to me, but he is an impulsive man."

"Last August I told him that it would be good for him to go back to South Africa on a visit to resume some of his old business connections and to get into touch with his family again, but I never thought that this could happen."

"All I can do now is to be brave and wait until he has finished his punishment, and then, if he wants to, he can come back to me and all will be forgotten."

Captain Raymond told the court that his wife knew nothing of the charge. On the morning that he went through the second "marriage" he was very drunk.

LURID "DREADFULS"

Apart from the filthy sex magazines, the "Telegraph" believes that the authorities should take some steps to control the sale of crime magazines. Unemployment, emigration, motion pictures are blamed alternately for the spread of crime in Hongkong, but the "Telegraph" believes that in the lurid "dreadfuls" there is an equally serious cause for complaint.

The flood of this cheap and vile type of literature is, despite one recent police clean-up, undoubtedly on the increase. This Colony is, in effect, being swamped with the type of literature that America herself is doing her best to stamp out.

The stories contained in these periodicals are often based on incidents which have happened in real life, but which have been so written up as to surround the crimes they portray with a glamour that should never be there.

For too many of the tales in these lurid magazines portray the Chinese character in its most fiendish form.

INSULT TO CHINESE

Opening one at random, the reader is introduced to "the terrible Dr. Woo Fan and the Land of the Society of the Red Circle, which used nations to get its victims." The Philippines are the scene of yet another mystery story, "Code for the Cobra." The bloodcurdling stories are decorated with sinister drawings of Chinese gun-men and thugs.

The "Seventh Sleeping Brother" is a tale of Chinese tong warfare, liberally interspersed with flowing blood and murders.

"Mystery Adventure Magazine" describes itself as "Exotic Dynamic! Exciting!" and gives the front cover of its September issue over to a Chinese grinning fiendishly at a semi-nude white girl about to be struck by a cobra.

A ten-cent mystery novel, "Dr. Yen Sin" outlines the career of a villainous Chinese who discovers a secret power which turns his victims into mummies!

It is no pleasant task to narrate all these details, and the reproduction on this page of parts of the covers from some of these magazines had to be toned down for local public consumption for reasons of decency. Even the covers on some of the American magazines are most objectionable to good taste.

It is a crime, if not legally, morally, that these stories should be allowed to be published, more especially as the stories contained in the magazines are labelled as true. It is a greater crime, both against good taste and public interest, that these magazines should be admitted to Hongkong.

The entry of these magazines into Hongkong should be stopped. If the Hongkong Government cannot stop their entry, it should penalise their sale to such an extent that it will become unprofitable for a retailer to be found with one of the magazines even in his possession.

STALIN STARTS BEAUTY SALONS

Moscow, Oct. 30.

STALIN has decided that the girls of Russia must be the most beautiful in the world.

The Soviet Government has ordered a State Institute of Cosmetics to be established in Moscow.

Grants have been made from public funds to defray the cost, and the Institute will be opened in November.

Staff will be professors skilled in the science of producing cosmetics and the art of using them.

"Any person," says the decree establishing the institute, "may consult the professors for advice on beauty treatment."

These are some of the reproducible samples taken from magazines purchased locally. Decency would not allow reproduction of many of the illustrations.

CHEAP JAPANESE TEXTILES WIN HONGKONG MARKET BRITISH TRADE WIPED OUT

"Telegraph" Correspondent.

When it is possible for those who patronise Chinese tailors' shops to buy a woollen suit for $20, or to add five such suits to one's wardrobe for less than $100, it is appropriate to consider the new situation brought about by an unprecedented influx of cheap Japanese textiles into the Colony.

Not, of course, that these suits compare in quality or style with the goods sold at European stores. None the less, patrons of Chinese shops are able to find therein a variety of patterns, in design and texture, as closely copying British ideas, and bearing marks as such, which create a false impression until it is dispelled by the almost ridiculously low prices asked.

An idea is thus gained of the extent to which Japanese textiles have captured the Hongkong and Chinese markets, the complete preparedness for the approaching cold season, and the woeful fact which all this denotes of a complete decline of British business in a line that until only a few years ago, had constituted one of the leading items of British exports.

To ascertain the precise facts associated with the situation, I interviewed yesterday a British manufacturer's representative—a man who had been closely identified with the business—and his uncompromising reply, which leaves no room for doubt as to the gravity of the situation, was:

"You can say the textile goods business, so far as Hongkong and the Far East is concerned, is for ever lost to England. As figures speak better than words, he showed me statistics compiled on behalf of the manufacturers whom he had represented. These show that, in 1931, Hongkong imported from Europe 22,000 cases of cotton piece goods and 10,000 of woollen piece goods. The following year, both figures had dropped, sharply, to between 8,000 and 9,000 for cotton and to between 5,000 and 6,000 for woollen.

In 1934, the figures further declined to 2,700 and 2,000 respectively, whilst last year they both stood at under 500.

Figures for the current year are not available, but it is safe to assume they are smaller, than ever, although indications are that cotton piece goods may have recovered somewhat. The decline, in any event, is at such a rate that almost complete extinction in these two European lines may be expected at any moment. England exported all of the cotton piece goods set out in the above figures, and about 75 per cent. of the woollen piece goods shown. French and Belgian serges are included in the remaining 25 per cent. For these three countries, the loss is all but complete in its application to Hongkong.

JAPANESE GAINS. Against this loss of European trade, is shown a steady gain by Japanese imports.

The factors that have accounted for this Japanese ascendancy, are contended to be to all of Japan's making, as it is pointed out that, after the war, Manchester and Bradford, comfortably assured of their leading position, neglected to renew their machinery when the Japanese producers were steadily improving theirs. To such a high pitch has this Japanese improvement and efficiency been brought to-day that it is not always possible, as in the past

TEXTILE IMPORTS FROM EUROPE

	Cotton Piecegoods cases	Woollen Piecegoods cases
1931	22,000	10,000
1932	8,000/9,000	5,000/6,000
1933	2,500/3,000	3,500
1934	2,700	1,800/2,000
1935	400/450	400/500

to speak of Japanese goods as being only cheap imitations. For, to cheaper production costs, the Japanese producers have added a much improved and constantly improving quality, both as regards a finished workmanship and dyes.

While Japanese exporters are enabled by their geographical position to transmit cargo over a very much shorter distance, British manufacturers on the other hand have to bear an additional item of expenditure saved to their competitors, and which is involved by the necessity of tin-lining the cases in which the goods are packed, to prevent wilful breakage and pilfering—an item of no small account when the additional freight over the longer distance is also considered.

COSTS AT MINIMUM

It seems hopeless to expect that British production costs will be less or Japanese production costs will be lower than they are. The Japanese worker, despite his much lower wage, and his relatively lower standard of living, is to-day represented as a satisfied worker, contented by being well cared for, working and living in sanitary surroundings and not without the amenities which it is possible to accord to him under modern requirements.

In Hongkong, quite a large number of factories are occupied with the textile business, and of these a survey I have made has shown at least eleven, at Mongkok and Yau-mali, with a capital totalling over a million dollars, which are daily turning out thousands of finished textile articles made from Japanese imports.

"It is no use crying 'Japanese competition,'" said my informant in putting the whole case in a nutshell. "There is simply no answer to it," he added.

At the request of the maker, "Serravallo's Tonic" was introduced into this Department by Dr. Stein in order to try its value. From the above figures, it will be seen that the patients show an increase in the quantity of Haemoglobin, in the number of red corpuscles, therefore that the changes which are generally produced by treatment with iron are also produced by giving "Serravallo's Tonic."

I must however remark that this mixture was willingly taken by two patients, to whom other iron mixtures had been given, but who could not stand them; that therefore this must be mentioned as an advantage which this mixture has over others: it never caused any disturbance to the stomach.

On the contrary, patients suffering from Chlorosis with want of appetite (in consequence of parenchymatous Gastritis) "Serravallo's Tonic" proved itself a very powerful appetiser. The same result was obtained in six other cases with anorexia during convalescence after different illnesses and always had a speedy effect.

The increase of appetite was ascribed by the patients themselves to this mixture, and was most willingly taken on account of its agreeable taste.

Therefore "Serravallo's Tonic" is most advisable in cases where the therapeutic use of iron is intended to act as a tonic to the appetite, such as in primary and secondary Anaemia, in slow convalescence and especially for children.

Silvertown WOOD PRESERVATIVE

Guards Against White Ants, Dry Rot, Etc.

These pictures illustrate actual tests made at Lahore and Beas, Punjab. Pieces of wood treated with "SILVERTOWN" were nailed to untreated pieces and buried for several months in ground infested with white ants. As will be seen on the left, the TREATED pieces remained UNTOUCHED, whereas the untreated pieces were almost completely devoured. To ensure a thorough test, all pieces were cut from the same plank.

Man Who "Sold" All His Good Deeds for 2s 3d MODERN FAUST'S RASH BARGAIN

A modern Faust is bitterly regretting his frivolity at Gora Kalwarja, near Warsaw.

The young man, Lelzor Eksztejn, sold his "good deeds" for 2s 3d to an acquaintance. As a result he is facing expulsion from home and the loss of his sweetheart.

Here is the story of this macabre transaction. One evening, while discussing philosophy with his friends, Eksztejn declared that for three zloty (the equivalent of 2s. 3d.) he would readily sell all the good deeds he had ever done to anyone who would buy them. They were not, he believed, essential for his reward in heaven.

Samul Jaskower at once paid the three zloty. In exchange he received a note from Eksztejn stating that he had handed over his good actions, and would not seek to recover them.

For two days all went well. Then Eksztejn's parents heard of the transaction. They called him a heretic and threatened to expel him from the home. Eksztejn's fiancée's parents also heard of it, and demanded that he should break off the engagement.

Eksztejn, in a state of terror, rushed to Jaskower and offered to buy back his good actions. But Jaskower was adamant. A fight started, and both men were wounded.

But still Jaskower clings to the receipt, and thus to the good deeds. He refuses to part with it—not even for 500 zloty (£20) which terrified Eksztejn and his fiancée's parents are now offering.

It is Jaskower's persists in refusal Eksztejn intends to go to law.

GRAMMAR IS "TOMFOOLERY"

Confessing himself to be something of a faddist in educational matters, Sir William McEneaney, former Secretary to the Scottish Education Department, speaking at the opening of the new sunshine school at Bishopmill, Elgin, recently declared that much of what was taught in schools was so much deadweight.

Arithmetic was an obsession, and grammar, parsing, and such-like simply tomfoolery. The main thing was to teach children to speak properly and to write decent, straight-forward English.

"GOSPEL OF LIPSTICK AND JAZZ"

"Much of the world's youth to-day is moving through life without direction to a gospel of lipstick and jazz, with feminine moles and masculine females crying:—On with the dance."

So said the Rev. Neil McLeod in an opening address to the Christian Endeavour Congress in the Wesley Chapel, Sydney.

"In Germany, Italy, Russia, and China youth is marching," he continued. "In 1914 they were marching too, pledged to a baptism of death to build a new world."

"The new world has not come, and youth is marching again. The world is in barracks. Practical politics mean only armaments. Battles are heard in our own streets. Youth is marching, I fear, with no proper direction."

WANTED—SEVEN EMINENT MEN

Wanted—two Generals, two Ambassadors, and three men of science; must be unmarried or widowed.

These seven men are being sought to fulfil the will made in 1928 by Mme. Hors, a widow who left her large residence at Louveciennes, Seine-et-Oise, as a place of rest for eminent men in retirement. She specified the beneficiaries as two Generals, two Ambassadors, and four scientists, but it is necessary to find only three of the latter class because there is one biologist at present in the house. The executors are the Academy of Sciences.

Applications show no signs of increasing, and it looks as if the dream of Mme. Hors will remain unfulfilled.

DEAD WOMAN'S THREE HUSBANDS ARRESTED

A woman's three husbands have been arrested by the Egyptian police on the suspicion of having plotted together to murder her. Nafissa Aly Hilaly, of Abu Tig, Upper Egypt, was found dead in a field near the village. The police recalled her past. At the age of 15 she had run away from home to marry a villager. She was unfaithful to him and he divorced her. She married again shortly afterwards, and lived with her second husband for two years. Then he divorced her. But Nafissa found a third husband, and she had been living with him until her death.

The police have arrested the three husbands, thinking that they may have conspired to kill the faithless Nafissa.

A FREAK ANIMAL

A freak animal, believed to be a cross between a goat and a sheep, has been shipped to Edinburgh by a wick dealer, who bought it in Calhness. It has a head like a goat and a body like a sheep.

A sample of its wool or hair was sent to Edinburgh, and this was followed by a request to send the animal, which was dispatched to Professor F. A. E. Crew, of the Institute of Animal Genetics, University of Edinburgh.

FAREWELL TO THE WORLD FROM A MONK'S CELL

From A Special Correspondent

Cairo, Oct. 25.

FATHER ANASTASE MARIE DE SAINT ELIE, the Carmelite M.B.E. and Chevalier of the Legion of Honour, one of the greatest living authorities on the Arabic language, and a member of half a dozen learned societies, has forsworn the world.

From his monk's cell in the Carmelite Monastery at Bagdad he has written a last letter to Dr. Shakhshiri, his friend in Cairo.

DESERT MONASTERY

"I have spent a fortnight in meditation," he writes.

"My superior has ordered me to go to some desert monastery outside Iraq, and I have decided to keep my lips sealed until my last hour of life.

"Don't reply, for letters will not be forwarded.

"Farewell!"

Anastase is seventy-two. Only himself and the Abbot know the whereabouts of the monastery where he will spend the last years of his life.

Efforts are being made to persuade the Abbot to prevent the distinguished scholar from going.

MILLIONAIRE DIES PENNILESS

From the British Colony and Protectorate of Kenya, just south of Abyssinia, comes a strange story of a man who made a fortune of 24,000,000 in a few years—and died penniless. He was an Indian named A. M. Jeevanjee. He arrived in Mombasa 38 years ago, says the South African News-Letter, and immediately saw the possibilities of commerce between the coast and the interior. With hard work and a skilful business acumen he soon built up a vast organisation.

For years people have willingly bought Pepsodent... rather than save a few pennies and endanger teeth with harsh, "bargain" dentifrices. They have always preferred Pepsodent for two reasons. First, because it is a "special film-removing tooth paste." It effectively removes from teeth the sticky, gummy coating that forms on them... dulls and discolors them... glues tooth decay germs to them. Second, because Pepsodent removes this film safely—without danger of injury to tooth enamel.

Today Pepsodent offers you more for your money than ever before. For it now comes to you in a new, 10% larger tube. You get more tooth paste for less money. The formula is unchanged. In every way Pepsodent is still the same high-quality product it has always been.

MAJOR BANS WEDDING OF GIRL OF 17

Daughter's Romance with Naval Officer

FIVE minutes after hearing that his daughter of 17 had given notice at the Chelsea Register Office, earlier in the day, of her proposed marriage to a naval sub-lieutenant, Major P. S. Jackson Taylor, of Egerton Mansions, Brompton-road, S.W., took steps to prevent the marriage from taking place.

The statement at the register office said that Miss Pamela Jackson-Taylor gave notice of her forthcoming marriage to Mr. Richard Barklie Lakin, of Silver Hill, Willesborough, near Ashford, Kent.

Mr. Lakin, who is 21, is attached to H.M.S. Lucia, the depot ship for submarines. He is the son of the late Mr. Edward Lyon Lakin, brother of Sir Richard Lakin, Bart., of Rensley, Cirencester, Gloucestershire.

"I have only just heard of the suggested marriage," Major Jackson-Taylor told a reporter.

"I was at first astounded, and I have no idea of allowing the marriage to take place. My daughter and Mr. Lakin will shortly come to see me and explain this action."

"In the meantime I have consulted my solicitors, and have seen to it that the marriage will be stopped if the two young people do not see reason."

"I am fond of both of them, and I would, on the whole, approve of their marriage later. But I am most firmly convinced that my daughter should not marry at the age of 17, nor is the young man of an age to marry. Young people to-day have strange ideas in their heads, but this is too much of a good thing."

Owing to its peculiar custom and manners the little Dutch town Volendam near Zulder Zee has always been a favourite place for artists. It is a usual sight to see artists sitting with their easel painting on the banks of the canal while little Dutch girls interestedly watch the work.

Trouble Among Father Divine's "Angels"

New York, Oct. 28.
Members of Father Divine's "Heaven" found themselves in worldly trouble when they tried to register in Harlem, New York's negro quarter, so as to be able to vote in the November election.

Father Divine, Negro Evangelist, claims he is God. His followers—including many whites—believe that he is and style themselves "Angels in the Kingdom of Father Divine."

Under "Heavenly" names groups of Divine's "Angels" entered the registration booth.

"Name, please," asked the official of the first.

"Wonderful Wisdom," was the reply.

"You can't register under that name, unless your real name is given, too," countered the officer. Sixteen other "Angels" (women) broke into noisy protest.

The arrival of an even more worldly police wagon quietened the "Angels."

They were shepherded into the van—"Quiet Peace," "Mary Light," "Just Peace," "Trust Love and Live," "Rolling Stone," "Sincere Smile," "Honest Consolation" and the rest.

At the police station they held a camp meeting. They sang: "Father Divine, my father, he got world in a jug and stopper in his hand."

THIS FREEDOM
Then seven male "Angels" broke into the prison, demanding to share the martyrdom of their sisters.

But when it came to transporting the "Angels" to the night court trouble broke out again.

The women refused to travel in the same wagon as the men.

"Father Divine has redeemed us from men," they protested.

The worldly police, paying no heed, bundled them into the van and took them to court.

The judge released the seven male martyrs and the polling officer withdrew his charge of "obstructing polling places."

The "Angels" went home singing. "Peace, it's wonderful. But they are still unregistered."

SPLENDID FOOTBALL FARE FOR THE WEEK-END

Nichols, of the Club, who is proving a worthy substitute for Hill at right back. He is playing for Club against Chinese Athletic to-day.

TAM AT INSIDE LEFT FOR S. CHINA

AGAINST R.W.F. TO-MORROW

Tam Kong-pak is going to play inside left for South China "A" to-morrow when they meet Royal Welch Fusiliers at Caroline Hill.

He has been moved out of the defence to make way for Lau Mau, who is now a comparative stranger to local soccer spectators.

Wong Mee-shun is not playing and Ip Pak-wa gives way to Tam. Leung Wing-chui has been shifted to centre-half, with Lau Hing-choi at right half.

It is also possible that Pau Kung-ping will return to the side, but this is not at all certain.

The probable team is: Pau Kung-ping (or Chui Sui-hon); Li Tin-sung and Lau Mau; Lau Hing-choi, Leung Wing-chui, and Lee Kwok-wai; Tso Kwai-shing, Lai Shui-wing, Fung King-chung, Tam Kong-pak and Tay Qua-liang.

Only one change is contemplated in the South China "B" team to meet East Lancashire this afternoon. Lee Shok-yau who usually plays at inside left will perform on the wing, while Cheuk Shek-kum will take over the vacancy.

The team will therefore be: Sammy Tsang; Leung In-chun and Cheung Chi-ying; Lau Tin-sun, Lim Tak-po and Henry Young; Yeung Shui-yick, Chan Tak-fai, Yuk Hon-woo, Cheuk Shek-kum and Lee Shok-yau.

CHAMPIONS TO BE TESTED BY THE FUSILIERS

E. Lincs. Out To Lower S. China "B" Record

(By "Veritas")

THE week-end league football programme is something out of the bag, and some exceptionally fine games are promised. This afternoon the big drawing card in the first division is the Sookunpoo encounter between East Lancashire and South China "B". The Chinese are still clinging, though somewhat precariously, to their unbeaten record, and on recent form of the East Lancashire, I do not think the Caroline Hill outfit will lose it to-day. But it should be a rattling good game.

Rifles will be all out to retain the leadership at King's Park where they are visitors to the Club de Recreo. Unless the smallness of the ground upsets them, I do not think they will have tremendous difficulty in winning. Club, deprived of the assistance of Elliott, will have a hard journey against the improving Chinese Athletic, and it would come as no big surprise if they lost.

To-morrow the big match is South China "A" v. Royal Welch Fusiliers at Caroline Hill, and the Chinese can expect just as strenuous a tussle as they received against Kowloon Chinese last week, and the Royal Ulster Rifles previous to that. Fusiliers are a hard nut to crack, especially if Talbot is on form. Talbot presents the same kind of danger to the Chinese as did Ridley the Lincolnshires' inside left. A draw is not unlikely, although I rather think the benefit of playing before their own supporters will encourage South China sufficiently to pull off a win.

Navy to-morrow are up against that "Dark Horse" of the first division—Kowloon, and here an interesting game is assured. Navy have to fear Knox, the Colony's budding centre-forward, whose shooting on the run stands in a class of its own in Hong-kong. The Navy men will also have to play much better than they did against the Army last Wednesday if they are to avoid defeat.

At Sookunpoo to-morrow St. Joseph's receive Kowloon Chinese, and after their clever display of last Sunday, the Chinese must be conceded a reasonable chance of winning. A great deal depends upon the efficiency of their defence. There appears to be nothing wrong with the attack, especially with Chow Man-chi in such fine shooting form.

Entertaining second division matches are indicated in the meeting of East Lancashire and South China, and Royal Engineers and the Fusiliers. This latter tie should be well worth seeing, as it brings together two of the strongest teams in the division. The Fusiliers will have to keep a weather eye on Howlett, whose goal-scoring propensities have been vividly illustrated just lately. I like the Sappers' chances, but wouldn't put money on the outcome of the game.

In a scrappy hockey encounter between the H.K. Hockey Club and the Kowloon Indian Tennis Club at King's Park yesterday, the Indians, slightly superior, defeated their opponents by two goals to one.

In the first half, H. E. W. Taylor scored for the Club, but Arjan Singh soon levelled matters, and then scored again in the second half.

Mrs. T. H. King, wife of the Hon. Mr. T. H. King, Inspector General of Police, will distribute the prizes at the conclusion of the Fourteenth Annual Athletic Sports meeting of the South China Athletic Association at Caroline Hill on Wednesday, November 11, at 4.30 p.m. The events will commence at 10 a.m.

POLICE AGAIN IN THE DUMPS

Blackburn In Hospital

Police are the hoodoo team of the first division this season. Still struggling to record their first win, they went down before Kowloon last Saturday after enjoying three parts of the game, and in the words of a qualified observer "playing in the first half a better type of football than in any other match during the last two seasons."

On top of that disappointment comes the news that Blackburn is in hospital and that Tommy Pile is a very doubtful starter for to-day's match against Eastern.

Blackburn certainly cannot be spared and with him away from the defence, the outlook for the Police is decidedly jaded. Done is being brought in at right back, which means a big ordeal for the Junior league player.

In the event of Pile being unable to play, Willerton will be brought into the attack.

The probable team therefore is: Mellard; Bone and Brittain; North, Gough and Parker; Willerton, Morrison, Moss, Green and Brooks.

First-Rate Services Team

FOR ARMISTICE DAY MATCH

An excellent team has been chosen to represent the Combined Services against the Rest of the Colony for the Armistice Day charity match on the Club ground. The side comprises seven military and four naval players, and is certainly the pick of the talent at the disposal of the selectors.

Howlands is in goal, but the well-known Swain-Steel full back combination has been broken up to allow Wolverson to appear in partnership with Swain.

Bowers figures at right half, with Campbell as pivot and Evans on the left flank. A very smart intermediate line this.

McLeod leads the attack, with Wride and Erwin constituting the right wing and Talbot and Harigan the left.

There is, I believe a slight doubt as to whether Harigan will be fit as he sustained a nasty injury in the Kowloon Cup match.

A complete team has been chosen as reserves, which is in itself strong enough a combination to offer a good opposition to any Colony side. The reserves are: Hurved (Navy); Harris (Navy) and Steele (Army); Taylor (Army); Hutchby (Army); and Gardner (Navy); Stone (Navy); Wolfe (Navy); Howlett (Army); Duffield (Army) and Tibbitts (Navy).

BLISS RETURNS TO KOWLOON

Good Team To Meet The Navy

After last week's success against the Police, thought perhaps a trifle lucky, Kowloon are facing to-morrow's test against the Navy with confidence.

Two changes have been made in the composition of the team. Ellis returns at centre-half, having recovered from his thigh injury, while Taylor departs Roberts at right half.

The defence and forward line remain untouched, and the team expects to line up as follows: Minihennet; Everett and Bowen; Taylor, Ellis and O'Connor; Eastman, V. White, D. Knox, Evans and Honniball.

Clubhouse Chatter

3,600 People Will Watch Tilden And Vines Here Next Week

"POORUS" IS LATEST SOCCER BARRACKING EXPRESSION

A total crowd of no less than 3,600 is certain to watch tennis-genius William T. Tilden and professional champion Ellsworth Vines during their two days appearance at the Hongkong Cricket Club next week. Capacity attendance (1,800) is assured on Monday, and L.T.A. officials inform me that bookings for Tuesday have been so good that only some 50 odd seats remain untaken in the $3.50 stand. Our distinguished visitors are certain of a warm and generous welcome to Hongkong, for to many here, it will mean the realisation of a long-cherished desire.

Don't Miss

The Lecture

I am sorry to hear that the public has not shown the same keenness in taking up tickets for the Tilden lecture in the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden on Monday evening. This is going to be an education in tennis which nobody interested in the game should miss. Tilden is a witty, clever and intelligent speaker, an acknowledged master of the theory of the game, and one who can offer wise counsel to the absolute "rabbit" and the expert. The admission charge ($1.50) is reasonable, and I certainly hope there will be a good response to this unique opportunity of listening to the world's most complete tennis player. Tilden's lectures in Japan were instantaneous successes and received as much notice in the Press as did his matches with Vines. Tilden is therefore certainly well worth hearing; besides which, we should like him to know that we really are interested in tennis in this Colony.

Wit On The #### Football Fields

It is a popular belief that one of the best places in which to hear spontaneous wit is at a football match.

E. STRANGE TO LEAD THE CLUB ATTACK

Ernest Strange, one time inside left, will lead the Club attack in place of Elliott in to-day's match against Chinese Athletic.

Elliott is under the cloud of having been sent off the field last week and he must remain out of the game until his case has been heard.

Skinner has been introduced to the half back line and he will figure on the left flank.

Nichols continues to partner S. Strange at full back, Hill being in Shanghai, and the team which it is expected will take the field against the Athletic is as follows:

Rodger; Nichols and S. Strange; Brown, Forwood, Skinner, Fowler, Fleming, E. Strange, Wilson and Bleckford.

Three Canton Navy Players For Eastern

While Police are facing difficulties, Eastern continue to experiment in an effort to strengthen the team. Against the Police this afternoon, three Canton Navy players have been included in the side.

Tauk Hang is a goalkeeper with a fine reputation in Canton, while Cheung Kwok-choi is a new left half and Chan Yu-tin, at inside left, the latest addition to the attack.

The introduction of these three players is expected to make water-tight the previously obvious defects in the Eastern eleven, so Police had better look out for squalls to-day.

Eastern will line up as follows: Tauk Hang; Ng Ying-kay and Lai Ting-choi; Tsang Chung-wan, George Yeung and Chung Kwok-choi; Chan Ping-to, Cheng Shui-hong, Sung Ping-sing, Chan Yu-tin, and N. S. B. Reserves—Lee, Bing-to, Chan Yun-fai, and Tang Yat-ming.

By "Veritas"

Probably one of the most nerveshaking comments ever hurled at a referee was on a local soccer field last season, when, after a player had committed several fouls which drew forth admonitions from the official he again offended which demanded a caution. Then as play was suspended, and amid a great quietness all over the ground, the raucous voice of a burly spectator boomed out: "Why the—don't you kiss 'im ref?"

BODIKER AND MISS GRIFFITHS

STARS OF KEEN ENCOUNTER

(By "Veritas")

Playing the final set in light that was distinctly difficult, A. E. P. Guest and Miss Madge Griffiths yesterday won their open Colony mixed doubles tennis championship match against G. Bodiker and Miss Holmes, played at the K.C.C., by two sets to one, the scores in their favour reading 6-3, 6-8, 6-0.

Bodiker and Miss Holmes made a spirited recovery after losing the first set rather easily, but when the light began to fall rapidly after the second set, Bodiker, handicapped by playing in glasses, could do nothing right and Guest and Miss Griffiths won at will.

The winners were vastly superior as a combination and were full value for their success. While Miss Griffiths gave a markedly fine display of retrieving shots, Miss Holmes touched off an off day and never really settled down to play the game expected of her.

On the other hand Bodiker lifted his game above the average and played very cleverly, especially in the second set. His volleying showed great improvement and his backhand driving was always a menace to the opposition.

Guest was wonderfully steady, as is his wont, and whenever a decisive stroke was needed, especially in the crucial stages of the match he was generally ready to supply it.

But the outstanding performance came from Miss Griffiths who scooped up some of Bodiker's fiercest drives with astonishing constancy, and Bodiker, who fairly monopolised his side of the court.

TWO PROMISING YOUNGSTERS

HOLDEN BOWLS WELL FOR THE CLUB

BAXTER DESERVING PLACE IN K.C.C. FIRST ELEVEN

(By R. Abbit)

There was an excellent game between the United Services and the H.K.C.C. on Saturday last and I found it a very pleasant one to watch.

As a matter of fact there were only three members of the Navy—who would all play in any services match I think—Colmore, a useful bat and very quick field, Davis, a good opening batsman and Marsh a medium fast bowler. The result of the U.S. first innings must have pleased the Club as their bowling did very well. After an expensive first over when Davis helped himself pretty freely, Owen Hughes settled down to bowl a much better length than he was found for a long time. He has altered his run and I am told that is the cause of his undoubted improvement. He got four for 45 runs but should have had at least one more wicket as an easy chance to long-off was misjudged. Holden, bowling well within himself, was distinctly promising and took four for 15. If he keeps his length and his head he may go a long way. Pearce got three wickets for 12 runs and the innings only totalled 116. Pritchard did fairly well and Marsh seems to be a better bat than a bowler often is! But I think some of the Army experts—notably Garthwaite—are a bit stale and a long rest from cricket will do them a world of good.

For the Club Alice Pearce played a very bright knock and Kibbee was also very useful. But when the second wicket fell five more went down for an additional 10 runs. Then Hayward and Gillespie knocked off the few required, and the game closed with the Club's score standing at 138 for 10 wickets and A. K. Mckenzie to bat. The fielding was on the whole pretty good and Hayward is doing gallantly behind the sticks. It is curious how few wicket keepers there seem to be about—especially in the Club. Some years ago Tim Pearce, when captain and the best bat on the side, had to turn himself into a stumper—I think it was after L. J. Davis' injury—and now Tom Hayward has to do the same thing!

THE NAVY BEATEN
At Sookunpoo the Navy got rather chewed up by the Indians though of course they had three men away with the U.S. team, and possibly others off owing to duty or being at sea—I have not seen the score-sheet but I gather that Pereira and M. C. Areulli got them out. I can't recall the latter but I think he was in the 1st eleven last season. I see Cochrane, the left-handed bat, got four wickets. But though I do not take the result of the game very seriously, I confess my opinion that once more the Indians will be favourites in the race for the Shield.

SURPRISE FOR K.C.C.
The result of the match between K.C.C. and the Civil Service was unexpected especially as the latter were very much below strength. Actually they had their first five men but after, as the second were playing, they had to fill up with substitutes. However the bowling on both sides was not too good. Goodwin told me that he never got a length, but spoke very highly of Ernie Fincher and Dicky Richardson, both of whom made centuries. Kowloon declared at 188 for 7 but I see I shall have to revise my estimate of a year or two ago that there were only two sides likely to make 175 in the second innings on a Saturday afternoon. But this I fear is more due to the falling off in bowling than the improvement in the batting. Thanks to Richardson and Perry K.C.C. were beaten on the post after a very good game.

There was quite a bit of junior division cricket and I am wondering whether K.C.C. would not be well advised to put Baxter into the first. With all due respect to the Junior division cricket it is not a good school for a young cricketer who really promises well, as he will learn

Unexpected Energy

The artist's conception of "unexpected energy" is perhaps based on that annual regatta between rival crews, for which one trains on Beer, the other trains on milk... and which the Beer drinkers have won successively for many years.

That same unexpected energy that is so evident in the Beer in your home countries you will find equally apparent in U.B., plus, of course, those wholesome qualities, fine flavour, and uniformity... all of which go to make U.B. "Beer at its Best."

EXCHANGE & TYPHOON MULCT COLONY IN NEARLY MILLION DOLLARS

The Finance Committee of the Legislative Council will have before it on Monday, at 2.30 p.m., requests for votes totalling $608,619.

Of this sum, $400,000 is for the Queen Mary Hospital, addition due to the cheap dollar. Other votes are similarly caused.

The recent typhoon cost Government $221,000 and more.

Explanations follow:

Prisons Department: Subsidence of prisoners $35,000.

The daily average number of prisoners in custody during the period January-September, 1936 was 1,874 as compared with the daily average of 1,472 in 1935, 1,610 in 1934, and 1,780 in 1933, and in consequence of this unforeseen increase in numbers, it is anticipated that a further sum of $35,000 will be required this year, to meet additional expenditure under this sub-head.

Miscellaneous Services: Rent of Public Telephones $1,000.

Owing to congestion on the Government exchange it was found necessary during the current year to reduce the number of Government telephones by fifteen and to rent public telephones in lieu. The cost of the Directory has also increased. Funds provided in 1936 Estimates are insufficient to cover this additional outlay and it is estimated that a further sum of $1,000 will be required to meet expenditure on this sub-head up to the end of the year.

Medical Department: Washing $3,000.

The total number of in-patients treated in hospital during the first 8 months of this year was 9,291 as compared with 8,156 for the corresponding period of last year, being an increase of 1,135. The balance in hand at the end of September was only $2,693.35 and it is anticipated that a further sum of $3,000 will be required before the end of the year.

Police Force: Subsidence of Prisoners $1,800.

Owing to an increase in the number of prisoners and witnesses for whom meals have had to be provided, it is estimated that a further sum of $1,800 will be required to cover expenditure on the sub-head to the end of the year.

Treasury: Stamps, etc. $500.

Owing to an increase in the number of documents stamped during the current year, the supply of certain denominations of stamps is becoming rapidly depleted, and is not considered sufficient to cover requirements until the annual order for 1937 is delivered. It is necessary, therefore, to order additional supplies now, and a further sum of $500 is required to meet this extra expenditure for which no provision was made in the Estimates for 1936.

Government will, of course, be reimbursed for this expense as the stamps are sold.

Kowloon-Canton Railway: Special Expenditure. New Boiler for Class B Locomotives $6,971.

Owing to the fall in exchange, a further sum of $6,971 is required to meet expenditure under this sub-head, the total cost of a new boiler being $30,970.50 whereas only $24,000 was provided in the Estimates for 1936.

The Hospital

Public Works Extraordinary: Hongkong, Buildings, 1, Queen Mary Hospital $400,000.

The cost of the Queen Mary Hospital was estimated at $3,502,000, but owing to the heavy fall in exchange in the interval the revised cost is now estimated at $3,015,000.

The expenditure to end of 1935 was $1,323,380.11 and the provision made in the current year's estimates $1,600,000. It is now proposed to spend $2,000,000 this year, the increase of $400,000 being mainly due to higher cost of materials in terms of local currency and partly to acceleration of work.

Public Works Extraordinary: New Kowloon, Miscellaneous. Laying out new areas, Chinese Cemeteries $4,000.

Owing to the collapse of certain parts of Homantin Cemetery, as a result of the heavy rainfall in August and September, it has been necessary to transfer all Section "T" burials to the New Kowloon Cemetery No. 7 at Ngau Chi Wan. This re-arrangement necessitates provision of additional burial spaces in the New Kowloon Cemetery No. 7, and a further sum of $4,000 is required to cover this extra expenditure.

Defence—Volunteer Defence Corps: 48 S.M.L.E. Rifles $792.

The provision in 1936 Estimates for these rifles was made at the rate of $12-1/8d. The amount provided has, in consequence of the fall in exchange, proved insufficient.

Medical Department: Treatment of Opium Addicts $50.

The expenditure on this sub-head has been greater than was anticipated and a supplementary vote for $50 is requested to cover this year's commitments.

Miscellaneous Services: Rent Allowances—Asiatic Subordinate Officers $12,500.

Officers of this class who rent approved accommodation are entitled to rent allowances, being the difference between the rents actually paid and 6% of the officers' salary, subject to certain maxima based on salary scales. Owing to the temporary levy on salaries the deductions have been less than was anticipated, and it is estimated that a further sum of $12,500 will be required to cover expenditure on this sub-head during the current year.

Public Works Recurrent: Hongkong, Typhoon and Rainstorm Damages $100,000.

Public Works Recurrent: Kowloon, Typhoon and Rainstorm Damages $35,000.

Public Works Recurrent: New Territories, Typhoon and Rainstorm Damages $20,000.

Public Works Recurrent: New Territories, Typhoon and Rainstorm Damages $20,000.

Provision made in Estimates (page 101 sub-head 26 item 1) $5,000.

The Typhoon of 17th August, 1936, and previous rainstorms caused considerable damage to Government buildings, roads, water works, port works etc.

On Your Gramophone

by SPIKE HUGHES

HAVING once got caught up in the traffic coming away from Aldershot I can testify to the popularity of the Aldershot Tattoo. As annual event as the traffic jam along the Hog's Back is H.M.V.'s on-the-spot recording of the Tattoo.

This year there seem to be more records of massed bands than usual; perhaps because 1,250 musicians is a larger number than usual.

The massed pipes, massed drums and fifes, and the massed bands of the Aldershot and Eastern Commands between them manage to make a stirring set of records (B 8435; O 2843-5), with "The Minstrel Boy," "The Last Chord" and "With Honour Crowned" tying for the position of theme song with two performances each.

Let anybody who suspects recruiting propaganda, let me assure them that the music chosen by the massed (1,250) musicians is for the most part slightly less exciting than a B.B.C. Sunday programme. The atmosphere and the sense of space is what makes these records.

If the natural instrument of expression of the Army in the brass band, that of the Navy in the human voice, that of the Royal Air Force in the aircraft, the British Navy is not what it was.

Twenty-nine numbers are introduced in these six sides, and only three are shanties.

First it was the withdrawal from the Mediterranean (in my day the British kept their ships where they pleased without consulting any foreigners, sir), and now this is a shanty.

The writing is on the wall.

Corica is rather a wild island, and there are not many gramophones on it. Judging by what I heard there during my holiday last year, I calculate that however many or few gramophones there are on the island, there is only one record they ever play, and that is a record of a Cornish song by a singer called Tino Rossi.

Rossi, when he first went to Paris, created a furore on the stage there with his singing—a handsome, romantic-looking chap, with flashing eyes and a persuasive voice which he accompanied on a guitar.

This month Tino Rossi makes his debut in Columbia's British catalogue, and they expect him to be as great a success here as he is in France. His record (DB 1694) is not, alas! that Cornish song of blessed memory, but of two French ballads.

Even if I told you their titles you would not be much interested, but would it matter if you were, for most French songs are alike in that they all concern 'l'amour and la chérie, and have a peculiar charm that only French singers know how to put over. And Rossi is a particularly good putter-over of charm.

ROUNABOUT

by The Showman

THE amount of food alleged to have been consumed by the six-day cyclists at Wembley, last week, reminds a reader of the feats of Milo the Crotonian.

Well, this is Monday, so we may as well strike a bright note and pursue the subject, especially for the benefit of those who switch off the B.B.C.'s "Talk for School."

Milo, then, was born in Crotona, in Italy, some thousands of years ago, and once carried a four-year-old bullock forty yards, killed it with one blow of his fist, and ate it up in one day.

The wife got so used to seeing large animals moving about, apparently under their own steam, but really on her husband's shoulders, that, when charged by a bull, she simply said (faintly, of course), "Is that you, Milo?"

But it wasn't, of course; and Mrs. Milo was thrown into the air, and never hit again.

Further information should be obtained from the B.B.C., and a stamped, addressed envelope enclosed for the usual official expression of inability to say anything.

Garbo's Garden

EXCLUSIVE pictures of the elusive Greta Garbo's garden retreat in Hollywood will be seen with interest by every film-goer.

But that is not enough for me. I want the human story behind the garden's pathetic attempts to dodge publicity: how it employs two tons of earth, a bunch of paper flowers, and a strip of false grass as its understudy. How it was caught by the enterprising photographer slipping into the sea, lured back, and persuaded to pose. And then I want a complete account of its love affairs, and an interview with its white-haired mother, old Mrs. Garbo.

Our Novelists

"THIS very morning," says Mr. J. B. Priestley, "I received, from Chandra, a long review of my last novel. Reviews tend to be silly, but the Canadian variety appears to be sillier than the rest."

Which inspires me, as an old reviewer to sing:—
Or, I LOVE J. B. Priestley,
His coat is so warm,
And, if I don't hurt him,
He'll do me no harm.

News for Business Girls

THE arguments for and against equal pay for the sexes still go on in the House of Commons at Home. No decision has been reached yet.

One new arrangement that they have just made in the Civil Service at Home is to put one girl in charge of each group of five typists. Working in teams of five the girl chosen to be in charge will receive an extra 6s. a week for her responsibilities. It has been found that girls work much better in this way than if they try to support the work out themselves.

WITH larger teams—of, say, fourteen girls—there is a superintendent in charge.

The Civil Service have found that, on the whole, their type of girl employee likes to be organized and is happier when her duties are definite and clearly laid down.

WOMEN are striding ahead in Europe in all branches of photography. There are at least six very successful young women running their own photographic studios in London, mostly specializing in women's and children's photographs.

Capital required to set up in this profession is not very high—but overheads are a serious problem, as a really good studio is essential and the modern photograph demands expensive lighting outfits. A good photograph will, however, bring in between 7s. 6d. and two to three guineas from a commercial firm.

IN a small provincial paper recently there was a case of a claim against a drapery store by a young assistant, as her health had become undermined from an indoor life of continual standing.

In Britain not only is it a by-law for one sent to be provided for every three assistants in a shop, but on taking up employment in a firm it is required by law for the employer to indicate the seats and tell the girl that she may use them when not actually serving. It is not sufficient for the store to be there, the new girl must be invited to sit on them officially.

This will come as a surprise to many, but it is a point that should not be ignored, particularly if the girls get utterly tired by long hours of standing.

Walking is excellent for the legs and feet—standing is not, so never stand when you are not busy.

HAVE you ever considered how much you could do to improve the "behind the scenes" of your office?

Some employers are very slow to realise how essential it is to the modern girl to provide a good mirror, a comfortable chair, adequate hot water service, and a supply of coat-hangers and pegs. These necessities are, however, for the girls themselves to insist upon as their right.

If the office is small, use a little ingenuity and suggest economical ways of fixing and providing these things—and when you get them see that every member of the staff is pledged to keep them in good condition.

ONCE you have got the room and equipment you can add your own small luxuries by means of a 10 cents a week charge to those using it. By small luxuries I mean good soap, spare box of powder and face cream and tissues—all things which one cannot carry about, but which are sometimes essential on a "going out" evening.

Our Office

ALL this stuff they write about efficiency!" snapped Miss Giles, sourly watching two of the junior typists titivating at their desks. "What's the good of it?"

"It's supposed to make one more efficient," I said mildly. "Huh! Not one girl in five cares whether she's efficient or not," said Miss Giles. "They haven't any real interest in their work. They only want to be adequate enough to scrape by without being dismissed."

"Sometimes, I suppose. But I never can understand why they do it." "Because they're only marking time between school and marriage," said Miss Giles, scowling through her spectacles at the titivating ones.

NOW this is one of the bees that buzz in my bonnet at the least provocation, and forgetting Mr. Fothergill, who was waiting for some of Miss Giles's statistics, I answered with enthusiasm: "But even if they are, why don't they enjoy the marking time? Why don't they get on doing it all their lives or not? Why be bored when they might be interested?"

"I had a job once where I did nothing but type-balance sheets. Anything duller than that I couldn't have imagined. But after a bit I actually got to like it. I liked setting them out nicely. And I liked thinking about the people whose fortunes I was recording, wondering what they were like, and how the various debits and credits affected their lives and so on. Even the driest business affairs represent people, and people never bore any one."

"You're a romanticist," said Miss Giles, a little more kindly. "Well, if I am I get a lot of fun out of it. It's so much more pleasant to be interested in what you have to do—especially when you have to do it all day and every day. And if you're interested, you're more efficient; and if you're efficient, you earn more money. And no one will quarrel with that."

HERE I suddenly remembered the waiting Mr. Fothergill, and I rushed away to practise what I had preached. I do believe in getting all you can out of what you have to do, even if you're not fortunate enough to have a job which you really enjoy. If you like, don't regard it so much as a matter of efficiency as of being alive. Life's pretty dreary if you look on the hours between 9.30 and 5 o'clock as wasted.

That is one of the reasons why I take trouble to make my office a nice place. The other reason is that I like Mr. Fothergill and want to help his business. One of the ways in which I can do this is to give the clients who visit him a comfortable place to wait in.
